THE FAMOUS HEN "PEGGY," VALUE
$10,000.00.

First Prize Winner at Jamestown Exposition, Madison Square Garden, New York, and everywhere she has been shown.

The reason we value the above hen at Ten Thousand Dollars is because we refused $2,500.00 for her after we sold five of her chicks for $7,500.00; and we will give $10,000.00 for a "Crystal" White Orpington hen that will equal her in every way.

GOOD MONEY IN GOOD TURKEY STOCK

WRITTEN FOR THE INDUSTRIOUS HEN BY ASSOCIATE EDITOR J. C. CLIPP

THE good prices at which farmers and poultrymen generally have received for turkeys the past season certainly should prompt every one to make a strong effort the coming season to grow a large number as prices are almost certain to rule high in the markets again the coming season. You will notice where the good management of turkeys prevails; there is where the business is most profitable. The grower that procures eggs the coming Spring from stock representing strong blood lines with the purpose of growing something above the ordinary is the one that will eventually find good money in turkey culture at a good growing demand. If you grow the best and are not satisfied with present stock you are the breeder that will soon find your orders far beyond your ability to supply the demands. The impression that some amateurs have of turkeys being next to an impossibility to raise should be quickly dismissed from their minds, as it only requires a personal knowledge of the turkey's peculiarities to be successful in raising at least eighty per cent of the poult hatched. There is no question but what the greatest secret in turkey culture is in having strong, vigorous, healthy parentage, no kin. If you hatch eggs from strong healthy parent stock the battle is certainly half won. The next point in favor of successful poultry growing is in having pure bred birds. You may be able to raise just as many poult to maturity by breeding from mongrels, but they are not so valuable when they are matured as the pure bred birds. If you have a fine flock of pure bred turkeys, any variety, you will find you can easily dispose of them to other breeders of the same variety for breeding purposes the coming season at a price far ahead of current market. Not only is there an advantage in raising pure bred turkeys from that point of view but from a market view point as well. You may not be able to procure any more per pound than your neighbor with mongrels. But if you have good strong blood bred for weight you will be able to place turkeys on the market from two to five pounds per head excess over your neighbor with the mongrels. Hence, you gain very rapidly in point of pounds. In some markets you can get an advance over the current market for strictly fancy prime turkeys that are well bred and finished with a good per cent of fat on their frames.

The year 1909 will see a very active turkey market. Every land-owner should avail himself of the opportunity of raising a few fine specimens in order to reap some of this rich harvest. Turkeys are very desirable fowls to raise on the farm. They will not wander far away if managed correctly. If you wish to have but little trouble with turkeys roaming away from home, establish regular feeding hours. Begin this early in the poult's life and they will not forget it. Of course when insects are plentiful they may wander away occasionally unintentionally; in such instances lose no time in bringing them home. If you have a dainty feed awaiting their arrival you will have but little trouble with them wandering away in the future.

It's natural, of course, for turkeys, any variety, to indulge in their wild habits, but there should be a moderation in allowing them full control of their wild habits. It is a well known fact that turkeys in their wild nature seldom if ever contract any fatal disease. But in domestication it is very common for turkey poult to contract various diseases, due to over feeding. Turkey poult in the majority of instances, are fed to death. The more you give them to natural requirements, the better success you will have with them. We feed turkey poult as little as any other one thing raised on the farm. Just as soon as they are up large enough to follow their mother turkey, we allow them full control of the farm, feeding but very little artificial feed, and find we raise a much larger number than when fed freely as we do other fowls.

Turkeys will not eat all the grain on the place, as some suppose. I am forced to conclude that this claim is largely made through a selfish motive, rather than conscientiously. There are people who really know turkeys will not devour any grain, but selfishness reigns in them so strong they would rather see you die a horrible death than to see your turkeys range across their belongings. This assertion may appear very strong but it's the actual fact; however, this should cut no figure with you in your efforts to grow a fine flock of turkeys for the approaching season. Obtain all the knowledge you can about the special characteristics of turkeys and my opinion is you will reap a rich harvest by being in possession of this knowledge. You can remember, years ago in going to school the old maxim we learned of "Knowledge is power," yes. Knowledge is truly power. If we thoroughly understand our business in any line we are absolutely certain to meet success. If you are familiar with the habits of turkeys you are just so certain to raise a nice choice flock that you can almost count the poult now by tens. If you haven't turkeys to raise from, procure eggs and raise with chicken hens. The natural turkey mothers are far superior to chicken mothers but if you are not in a position to raise poult with turkeys get eggs and raise a start with the chicken hens. You will find them profitable that way, for the reason they bring the highest price of any fowl grown, unless it is geese, but very few years has ever found geese prices ruling over turkeys. Turkeys are a grand fowl for the farmer and should be grown from the strongest blood lines possible to procure.

WHICH ARE THE BEST FOWLS TO KEEP?

WRITTEN FOR THE INDUSTRIOUS HEN BY MRS. S. C. BRIDGEWATER

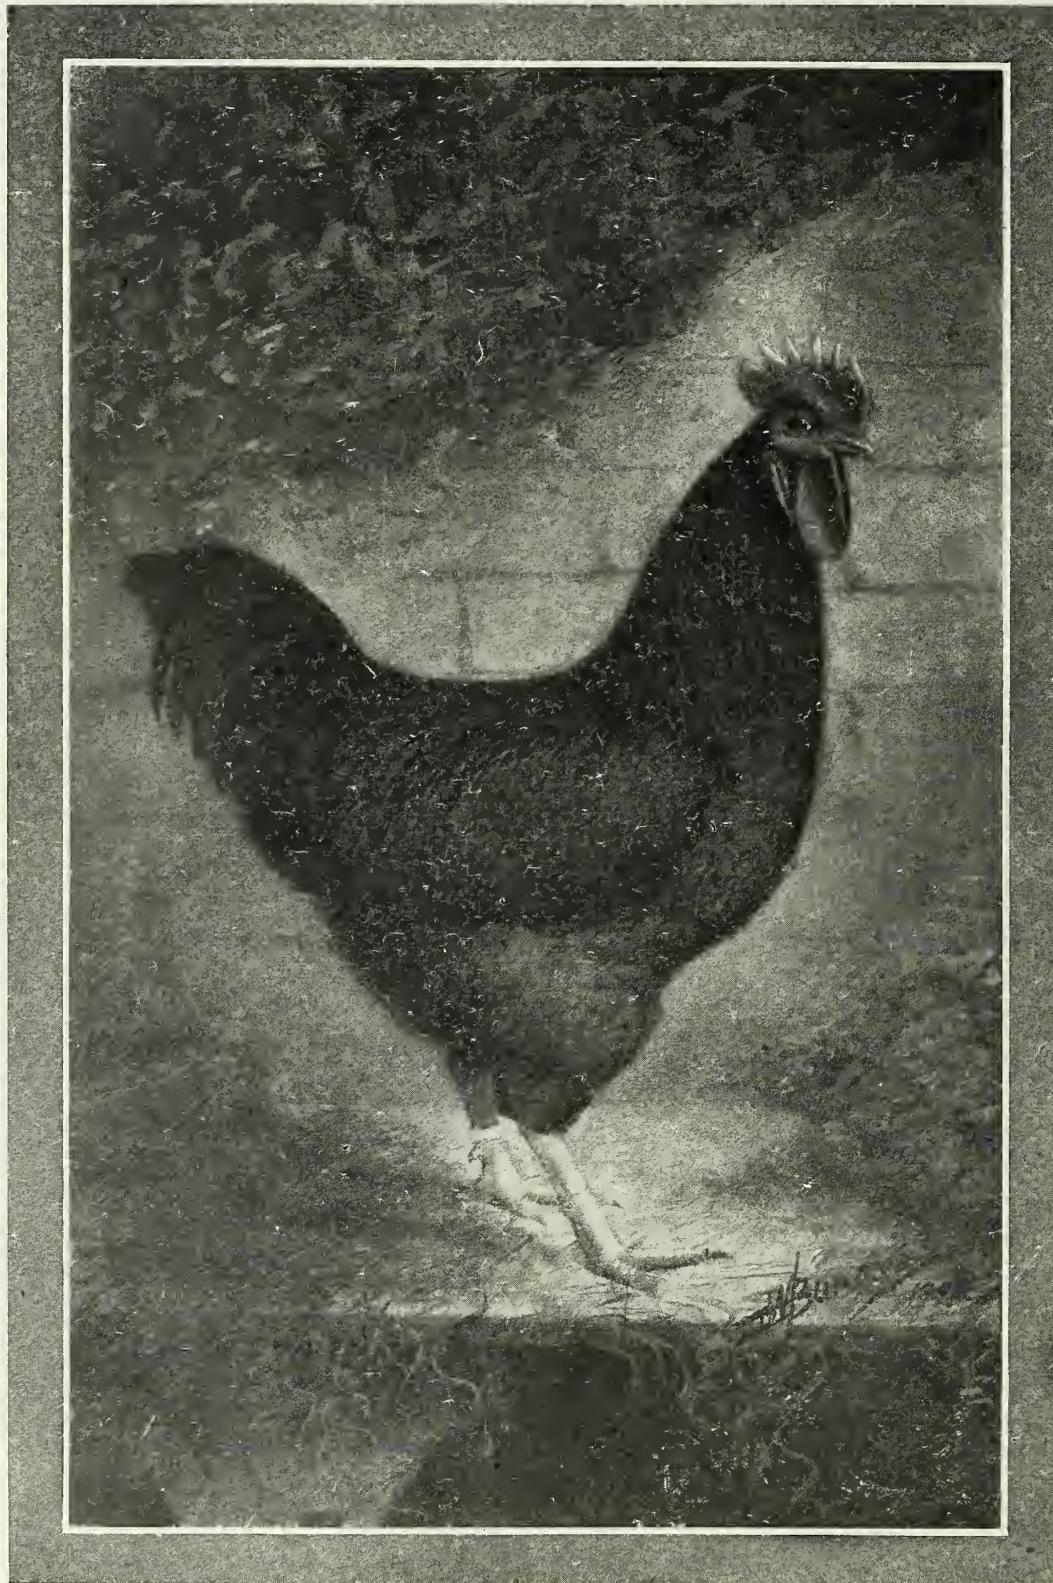

THIS is a difficult question. To name certain breeds might lead to misunderstanding; so it may as well be said straight out that there are good and bad birds of every breed, and the perfection of each depends upon the strain. A good strain is achieved by careful and scientific breeding; using in every instance the American Standard of Perfection as your guide in selection; also keeping tab on your hens and selecting the best layers and best mothers. I believe in and practice line-breeding—a very different method from the old one of in-breeding and brings wholly different results. Should any desire to know this method of line-breeding as practiced by the best American fanciers, I will be glad to give it.

As to the best breed to keep, that depends upon what is desired in a fowl. To those who object to keeping hens that become broody I would recommend a Houdan-Minorca, a Houdan-Leghorn or a Houdan-Hamburg cross. These fowls are excellent layers of white shelled eggs, but do not bear confinement well. They are good summer layers but are too small to generate sufficient warmth to develop good winter layers. For table birds the Game Dorkings are tip top. The Andalusians are excellent layers of large white shelled eggs, but the birds are very hard to breed true to color. Rhode Island Reds are strong, steady fowls and class as good layers, but are also difficult in color breeding. I raise them and their deep yellow legs make an effective contrast with their brilliant plumage, but in a measure I share the prejudice of the French and English epicures, who will not knowingly partake of the flesh of a yellow-skinned chicken. Plymouth Rocks are good all-purpose fowls, fine layers, bear confinement well, and I like the modest black and white bar of color scheme. Wyandottes are splendid birds, patrician in form and carriage and are fine winter layers. They bear dampness well and confinement only fairly well. They are fine table birds. William Cook, the most scientific breeder of fowls the world has known says: "As table birds they rank second only to Dorkings and Orpingtons than which there is absolutely no superior."

With me the Orpington fowl is pre-eminent; for an all-purpose fowl, combining beauty and utility it has no equal. The Single Comb Buff Orpington, possessing more practical points combined with stateliness and grace and beauty of color, became my favorite of this breed. They are large, active, majestic, docile, affectionate, but game; splendid as mothers, bear confinement perfectly, yet enjoy a wide range. 'Tis a rare pleasure to tend them; to scientifically study the laws of heredity and thus produce the finest results. They have lots of juicy meat, with delicate flavor and tender texture; have longer keels, and more breast meat than other fowls, on account of their Dorking blood. Cockerels with large spurs, (the fowls about as large as young turkeys) are just as tender and delicious served at table as a tender pullet of the other breeds. Their pure, white skin and legs, and beautiful form make them very attractive dressed fowls. They have won first in more dressed-table contests than any other breed. In 1908 when 600 birds of all breeds were competing, they won first in a dressed-for-table contest held by the Australian government. For several years they have also won this contest held at the Dairy Show in London, England. They grow so rapidly that they are ready for the table a few weeks earlier than other breeds. They are exceptionally strong as young biddies, resisting disease, and reach maturity early; beginning to lay a few weeks earlier than other breeds. They are prodigal of eggs and bear neglect and hardship better than any other known breed. I love to think of the good Queen Victoria and her interest in these fowls. 'Tis related that when she was away from the Royal Palace all her poultry supplies were shipped to her from her Orpington flock. King Edward shared his queen mother's preference for this matchless bird. William Cook, of Kent, England, after keeping and knowing thoroughly every detail of every known breed of domestic fowl, saw that there was room for a better breed of fowls; so that it was in 1876 he started to make such a fowl, and perfection was not attained until the expiration of fifteen years. When he began with his ideal already thought out, Mr. Cook had more than 3,000 fowls of other kinds—all good pure bred birds—from which he might combine weight, eggs, general usefulness and a handsome appearance. He selected the Hamburg—fine layers, non-sitters and of admirable shape; the Dorking for its particularly fine flavored flesh with its large quantity of breast meat—and the Buff Cochins for their color, weight, hardiness, and best of winter layers. From this trio of breeds the Buff Orpington was produced or evolved; the greatest of all utility fowls.

The Orpingtons have to their credit more first prizes in laying contests, economy and market poultry contests, than any other breed. They hold the world's record for eggs. In one of the official contests in Australia, where they won first place, the winning pen averaged 252 eggs per bird during the twelve months. In another contest, in 1906, lasting twelve months, six Orpington pullets pitted against the recognized greatest layers, came off first with an average yield of 243 eggs apiece and again beat the world's record; and this was in a government, not a private, contest. The Orpington hen has averaged over 220 eggs per year at Archangel, in Northern Russia, probably the coldest inhabited spot in existence, and they thrive equally well in tropical climates. I mention this fact to show that they are immune from climatic conditions and to prove that they are the greatest of known fowls today!

A MOMENTOUS QUESTION

Written for The Industrious Hen:

The consumption of eggs for table use is gradually growing, and it is also true that the supply of the first-class fresh stock, is gradually growing, but it seems that the demand is growing much faster than the supply, and still it seems that the poultrymen and farmers in general are still sleeping, refusing absolutely to listen to, or be advised by those who are in position to know the true state of affairs.

Most farmers, yes, the greater percent of farmers are still holding on to the old common mongrel type of fowl, insisting that "a chicken is a chicken," and "an egg is an egg," without trying to dig into the matter to find out just what difference there really is in the common mongrel and the thoroughbred, for we well know that if such a careful investigation were made, as should be made, no thinking person of ordinary intelligence could but realize the vast difference there is. Reader, did you ever make a comparison of a dozen eggs from a uniform flock of pure-bred fowls, and another dozen from the ordinary common stock. If you have not done this, by all means try it.

The demand for strictly fresh eggs, is now and always will be, much greater than the supply. The larger the supply, the nearer the price is apt to come within the reach of the wage earner and the great laboring classes, who are now denied the luxury of this item of food on account of the enormous demand and the high prices that are soaring higher every year. The price can be reduced and still there will be a fine margin per hen, enough for any farmer to make a good, comfortable living on an egg farm of medium size. Eggs have been selling in the Northern and Eastern markets from 40c to 75c per dozen at retail, averaging about 50c to 55c. In our own Southern markets, the price has very seldom dropped less than 35c or 40c per dozen.

I take the following quotation from the report of one of the largest Northern produce merchants, and I would have every reader take it carefully, and thoughtfully, for if anything ever contained food for thought, it is certainly this, and as bad as it may hurt, it is every word true.

"The outlook for cheap eggs during the Spring months to the level of last year is not probable. Buyers then succeeded in obtaining eggs for storage purposes from 2 to 3 cents lower than the preceding year (1907).

During the past year, and until the unprecedented high prices, eggs have been about the cheapest ideal food. Consumption has been heavy, hence with the shortage in accumulated cold storage stocks a practically bare market has, and still, exists.

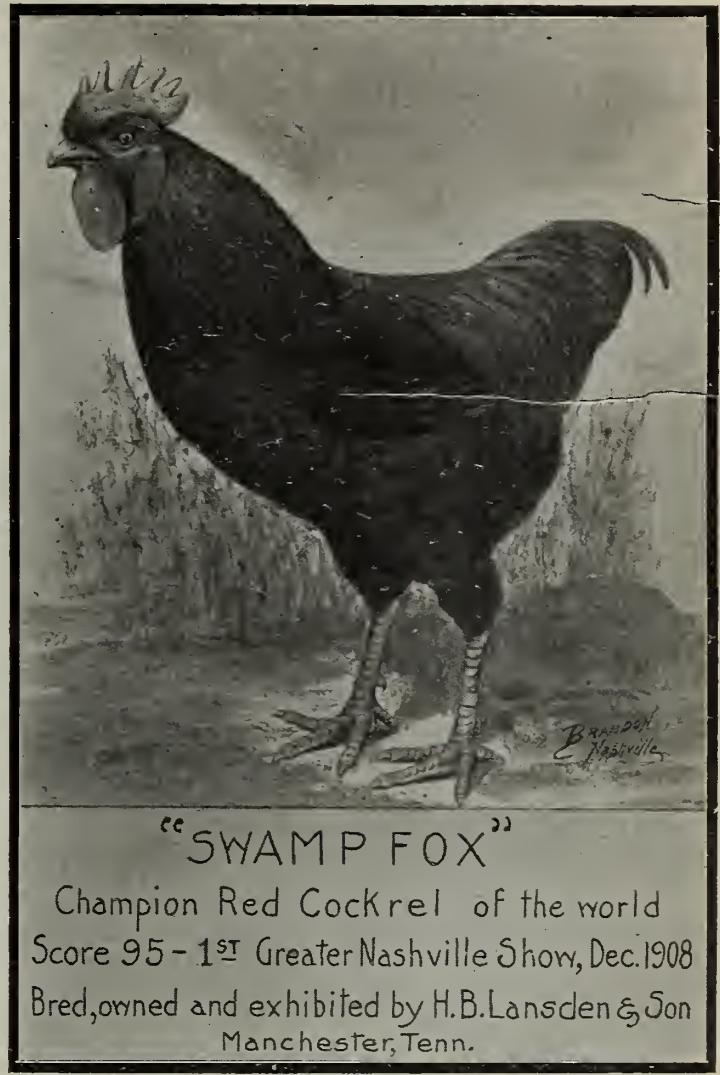

In view of the fact that the season for rearing poultry is at hand, I would earnestly impress upon every poultryman and poultrywoman the importance of doubling their poultry output for the coming year.

The Southern egg is now with us—THE SALVATION AGAINST AN EGG FAMINE. It is not fair to speak ill of the bridge that carries you over the stream with safety, yet it is undeniably true that the eggs from the Southland are of inferior quality and small in size. Whether this is attributable to the enervating climate, or lack of progressiveness in the Southern farmer, I cannot say.

With a field so inviting, and easy of access to Northern markets, which they can supply when prices are the highest, it would seem plausible and laudable for the progressive poultryman to go South and engage in the business of egg production, and supply eggs in size and quality the equal of those that are shipped from the territory north of the Ohio river."

Indeed this is a matter of deep concern for every wide-awake poultryman. It is very evident that the writer of the above is thoroughly versed in the conditions of the egg market, but not in the conditions of the poultry raisers of the Southland, or he would not have had one moment's uneasiness as to the real cause of the inferior quality and small size of the Southern product. It is positively not the climate, for where in all the universe could there be found such congenial climate for raising poultry as in the South, and more especially in Tennessee. It is without doubt the lack of progressiveness in our farmers. What an enormous percent pay no attention to the poultry on the farm, leaving that to the women-folks, thinking that end of the business is for women and children, and that they, as busy men, have no time for such a trivial matter as a few chickens. Consider please, that the poultry crop in the United States for the past year greatly exceeded the wheat crop, then why treat this matter as if it were of little or no importance, when the field is wide open for such an enormous business, with so little capital required for the investment, and such quick profits, and a strictly cash business. Certainly this should appeal to every one interested in the great poultry industry, and even to those who have never been interested, for there is certainly room for you too. The supply will never be as great as the demand.

Now, as the season for rearing poultry is on us in a full swing, with the market conditions as they are, and this positive shortage which has produced such conditions, certainly should be an urgent reason for every wide awake, enterprising poultryman and farmer in this great Southland of ours, to awake and be doing, increase the flocks for 1909, and thereby increase the output. Breed your birds for egg production, get the best results possible from your flocks. The outlook was never so bright as now.—FOUNT H. RION.

THE EGG SELLING SEASON

WRITTEN FOR THE INDUSTRIOUS HEN
BY J. A. THORNHILL

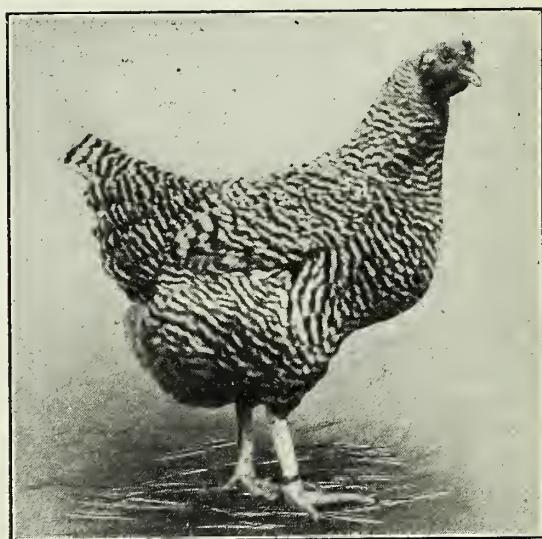

THE season for selling eggs for hatching, is now on again. We have already shipped several settings. To get and give satisfaction, give your customers the best possible for their money sent you. Never fill an order with anything but the best, as represented. If you can not do business on the "square" you should cut it out altogether. When you fill an order, consider that if you were on the other end of the deal you would expect the best. You want a square deal, your customers the same; and the best logic would be to give it to them. "One satisfied customer is worth five not so."

"The male is half the pen mated." We have seen this in our journals time and again—however, it is true. If a hen be not true, we only get one egg out of ten hens mated; but, if the male be inferior, we get ten inferior eggs. A male will sometimes show up well in fancy points, health, etc., at the same time be sterile; we sometimes mate too many hens with one male.

Eight of the larger breeds and ten to twelve of the smaller will prove very satisfactory. Before sending out any eggs from a pen after mating, we should test some of them, from time to time, either by hen or incubator. Too often we blame our customers for complaining about eggs not hatching, when the trouble lies at home with the parent stock.

In mating we should consider shape, size, color, health, and environments. A hen, to produce fertile eggs, that can be depended on must be in the best of condition. To get uniform progeny you must use the best you have, in what-

Care for the best results should date back into the past Fall and Winter; there is no profit derived from spasmodic care. All seasons considered, for best results you should strive to get your chicks out early; they grow faster, make larger and stronger birds and will be found easier raised. Some contend the early chick matures and moults about show time. To get size, you must discard this thought. So many people, who buy eggs for setting purposes, buy of the Northern breeders, when at home they could get just as good and often times better, at the same time helping to develop the Southern breeder's cause. It is a mistaken idea that the Southern breeders cannot, and that they do not, produce as good stock and eggs as any other set of breeders in the Union. Southern buyers, buy from your Southern friends; it is nothing more than right that you should.

Do not blame the seller if the eggs he ships you do not hatch. Especially if your own are not hatching at home. The seller often does the best he can to make the hatch successful and did you know that a card from a customer telling of an "extra good hatch" does the seller more good than the order you sent him.

Your hens will lay more soft-shelled eggs, if not properly cared for during this and the next two months, than at any other period. Too much corn, or too little grit, oyster shell and exercise, are mostly to blame. Again, hens are laying more eggs during this time, therefore require more of everything pertaining to their general care. There are hens in most yards this Spring that will lay soft-shelled eggs matters not what is done for them. Such hens are worthless as breeders.

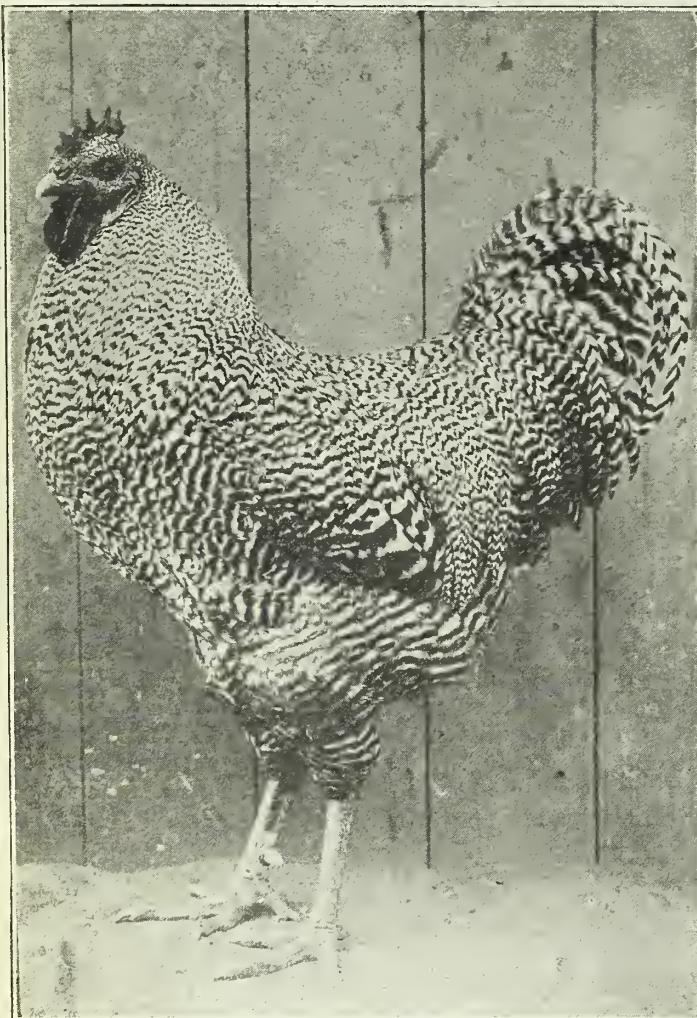

Had you thought of it? Often times our eggs are hatching well for us. We ship these same eggs to our customers and they will fail. The reason, they are too old, subjected to rougher handling, poorly packed, and one of the greatest causes we find is age. A fresh egg contains about 65 per cent. water, at two weeks old 43 per cent. There lies the secret of old eggs not hatching. Again the germ decays as age appears.

The old story we read so often, "whole corn" on a cold evening to retain the required heat in our breeders isn't worth as much as a well constructed hen house. Of course whole corn does retain heat to a certain extent, but not near so well as a warm house. Combine whole corn and a warm house and you have it complete.

Hens will not produce many fertile eggs after freezing the winter out in a cold hen house. Selecting eggs for hatching can not be done any too well. Avoid double yolk eggs, eggs that are too small, too large, shells that are not of an even texture and those that have a ridge of thickness encircling them.

By all means use only fresh eggs for shipping. Be sure they are fresh if you want satisfied customers.

The best is none too good in the selection of breeders, their care, the eggs used for hatching and their regularities played on your part.

From the breeding pens of Amos Burhans, Waterville, Minn.

ever type you are striving for. "The best is none too good," from a true breeder's view.

Feeding our breeders that are to produce the eggs we intend to ship, or use at home, cannot be done too accurately. We have read often about different food formulas, but one of the best I find for feeding stock is a "variety." Of course it must be sound and wholesome. If we feed, a variety we need not bother about the analysis of the foods we are feeding so much. In caring for our breeders, we should be regular, and did you know the best care we can bestow on them is none too good.

THE BALTIMORE, MARYLAND, SHOW

WRITTEN FOR THE INDUSTRIOUS HEN BY WM. F. FOTTERALL

THE first annual show of the Maryland Poultry and Pigeon Association of Baltimore opened their doors to the poultry fanciers of America January 5th to 9th. So well did they show that true Southern spirit of hospitality that the only regret expressed, was on Saturday night, when the doors were closed. The Southern fanciers are true sports—not only did they pay large cash premiums, but in addition hung up over $2,500 in Silver Cups, without any strings on them whatever, that alone speaks wonders for the Madison Square Garden of the South. In point of fact, it outnumbered all shows this year, with the exception of Boston and New York, with poultry entries.

Gentlemen, keep your eyes on the Baltimore boys—they are a wide-awake lot; it is the keystone of the South; and they are the kind that won't stop for expense of the show. Their one aim is to make it a success. They capitalized at $5,000 and the stock was more than twice subscribed for. It put one in mind of the good old days of Pemblico, when the late Governor Bowie of Maryland insisted on having the greatest race in America run over that dear old track. So well was it taken up by the Baltimore gentlemen, that they gladly subscribed the largest purse in those days to see the greatest four mile heat race ever witnessed—so you see they are born and bred game. The expression of exhibitors was pleasing to hear, regarding the judging—with the exception of the Bantams, and the treasurer was very much criticised to say nothing more in his selection of the Bantam judge.

Black Langshans are certainly gaining strength and it puts one in mind of years gone by to see the way they showed up in their former popularity. The cocks and hens were a very even lot and gave the judge all he wanted. First cockerel and first pullet stood out to themselves, having exceptionally short backs.

Barred Plymouth Rocks, as usual, was the strongest class in the show. Cocks a very ordinary lot as to quality; first and second hen first class; first exceptionally strong in narrow barring and wing; first cockerel a star, clean cut, narrow barring and fine shape; second just as good except lacked development. Third good but had gone by. First pullet was the class of the alley and was said to be a daughter of Charley Welles' Madison Square Garden hen, and I have no doubt but what she was, as she is the next best to Fluffy Ruffles that the writer has seen.

White Plymouth Rocks were unusually strong, and the cream of the class was exhibited by Peacock Farm No. 1, they refused an offer of $250.00 for their first pen.

Buff Plymouth Rocks were not so strong in number as they should have been, owing to the club meet at Greenville, N. C. Charles A. Matsinger led; his first cock was a star, second and third very close and hard to pick. Hens a very even lot, first and second being very close. Cockerels a fair lot, with much more quality shown in the pullets.

Partridge Plymouth Rocks was the largest class ever shown in American and they are outdoing some of the older varieties in number, with exceptional quality. Hillcrest Farms easily won the Silver cup for best display. Starting off in a class of twelve cocks, first, second, third and fourth. First hen of Cochin type, but winning on color and size—however, her winning days were numbered, having died the following week at Rutherford show. The first cockerel was a grand bird, shown by Chas. A. Matsinger. The quality shown in this class can be judged by the first Madison Square Garden cockerel being placed fourth, and indeed was fortunate in being placed in the ribbons. The New York pullet repeated, and the pullets are showing great improvement.

Silver Wyandottes were a small but select class. But what they lost in numbers was more than made up in quality. Rarely have the male birds been equalled, and if the first cockerel should be shown at Philadelphia will expect Dr. Becket to look up and take notice, as he will have a harder proposition to beat than he ever had before.

White Wyandottes were an unusually large class, with some fair birds, but as a class lacking the usual quality shown. The only bird worthy of comment was the first cock exhibited by Wm. G. Minnich, of Carlisle, Pa., and he was by far the class in this variety; he winning the Silver cup for best bird in the class.

Buff and Partridge Wyandottes. Very small classes, with little or no competition.

Columbian Wyandottes. In popularity they are certainly outstripping some of the older varieties. Some extra good birds were shown. Cocks a medium class as to quality; hens showed a decided improvement, first and second hen being very close and pretty near a toss up; 1st cockerel easily the best, good head and eye, fine striped hackle, good shape; 2nd, good shape, comb a little large, good hackle; 3rd and 4th very close, good hackles but lacking in shape. The pullets shown were a strong even lot, with the 2nd pullet the choice of the lot; good eye and hackle and fine marked tail feathers and I am told, had nearly a perfect wing.

White Leghorns were numerous, and it's surprising to see the great number exhibited at one show and the next large show they are conspicuous by their absence. There was considerable dissatisfaction expressed by exhibitors before the judging started, and it was promptly met by the First Prize Columbian Hen at Nashville, 1908. Owned and bred by J. H. McDaniel, Warsaw, Ky. Send for his new catalogue of Golden and Columbian Wyandottes.

Association, putting four judges on, each judge having one class, cocks, hens, cockerels, pullets, which settled all uneasiness. Dr. T. Frank Develin of Oxford, Pa., was well placed in all classes, and showed conclusively the high standard Dr. Develin has been aiming at for the short time he has been breeding and exhibiting.

Brown Leghorns. Outside of New York this was the largest class the writer has seen this year. The quality was all that could be desired, and Wm. R. Bowers won two handsome Silver cups, showing that Mr. Bowers thoroughly understands mating to produce pullets and cockerels.

Baltimore was a great show for selling birds, as the Maryland gentlemen have certainly caught the fever, and those that were fortunate enough to have displays for sale, found hands ready and willing to go down deep in their pockets to become the proud owner of the feathered beauties. Mrs. Turner sold a pen of White Wyandottes for $250.00; the same purchaser bought a trio of Bantams for $100.00 from Wm. R. Bowers. There were many more sales made, worthy of note and many tempting offers refused.

BY AN OLD FARMER

POULTRY PICKINGS

Wintering fowls in the South is much easier than in the North. We rarely have snow and bluegrass grows green for grazing all winter, grit may be found and often worms and bugs.

To get eggs in winter we must treat our hens right. They must have a warm roost, and for feed wheat and oats as well as corn. Corn makes plenty of heat and fat, but is poor for eggs.

Chickens, like people, must have exercise. Let them scratch in the woods and range the fields for grass, weed-seeds or whatever they may find. Then feed them in a litter when more exercise is necessary.

Build the poultry house on an elevated, well-drained spot of ground. For the sake of health there should be no dampness about the premises. Dampness also curtails the egg production, especially in the winter.

On the 20th of last November fresh laid, white eggs sold for 50 cents per dozen, wholesale, in New York City. At the same time Southern eggs were quoted at 23 to 27 cents. The difference was a matter of quality.

It is very foolish to mix bad eggs with good, for then all must be sold at the price of the poorest. Some merchants buy mixed country lots at 15 cents a dozen and after sorting them get 20, 30 and 40 cents a dozen for them.

WHOLESALE OR RETAIL?

Which do you prefer? Which pays better? Some make it pay better one way and some the other. Some are better fitted for one way and some the other. Some prefer to put in their time with keeping more fowls and then sell eggs to the dealer at from 3 to 5 cents less per dozen wholesale rather than keep fewer fowls and spend the extra time going around to customers. You may like to dicker with the consumer for more money. Then do it. Competition settles the profits at about equal rates in either case and you can do as you please and are best fitted.

SUCCESS IN POULTRY

There is a popular idea that when a man fails at everything else he can strike out and make a fortune out of poultry. There never was a greater mistake. There is money in poultry for the right sort of man, but he must work for it the same as any other business.

Another mistake is that it will pay to go into the poultry business temporarily. One has to learn the ropes by experience and build up in this as well as in other lines, and it generally takes years to do it. Customers can not be acquired in a few weeks. The best points in selling are picked up only through long years of experience. The only true way is to go in for life and stick to it.

WHAT GRANDMA SAYS

We are all too careless about keeping our roosts and houses clean, and we don't have half enough nice nests for the hens to lay in.

Place your nests so they will be somewhat concealed from observation. Hens don't like to nest in a public place. The more concealed the better.

In the old days we mixed our breeds. We thought this made better chickens. It generally does for one generation, but after that they rapidly run out.

If you don't give your hens satisfactory nests they will steal off and lay in the weeds. Then you may not find the nest for several days and some eggs will be spoiled. The side next to the ground spoils in a very short time.

One great disadvantage of mixed breeds is that your eggs will be mixed in size and color. Eggs of uniform size and color sell best. If your customers are prejudiced in favor of any particular color, that is the one for you to produce.

I now see that the best way to breed up is to stick to one breed and every year select the best cockerels and pullets from the young stock. To get best layers I save from the eggs of my best laying hens. New blood should be introduced by fine roosters of the same breed from other flocks.

WHAT OTHERS SAY

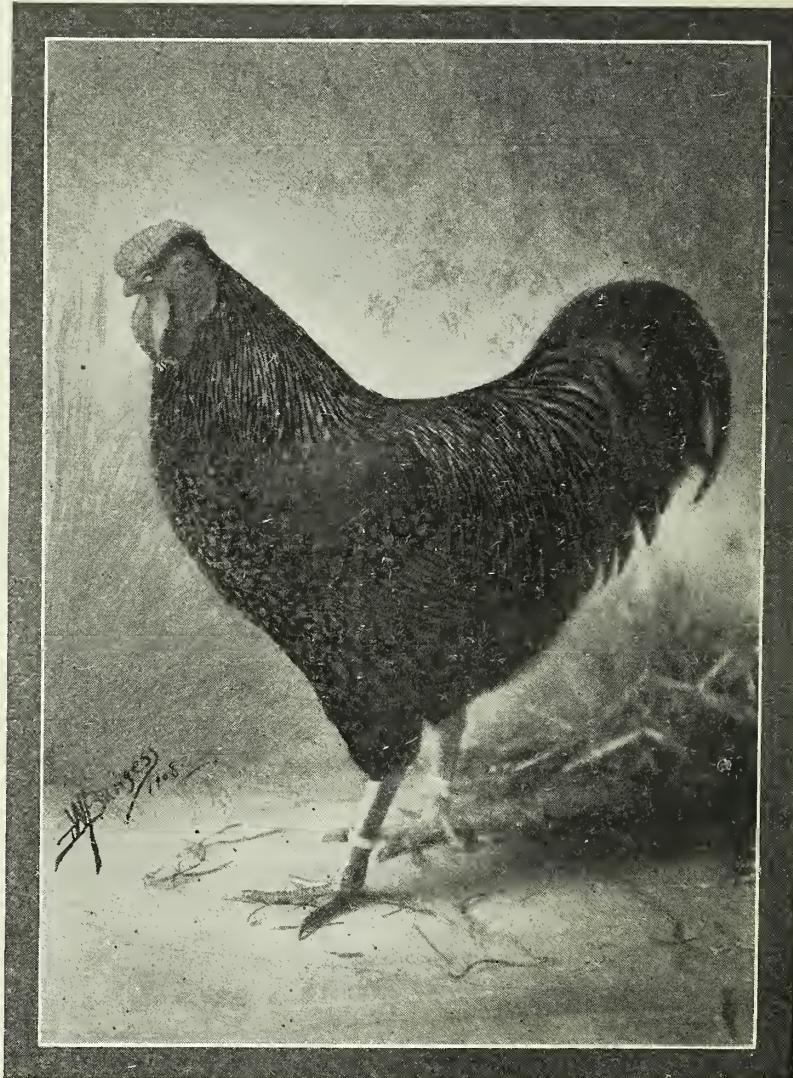

According to the last census the value of laying hens in the United States was $70,000,000 and they lay annually 203 eggs for each inhabitant, and these eggs weigh more than all the pork, beef, tallow, ham, bacon, and sausage exported. This is what E. C. says in the Indiana Farmer.

The same authority gives Iowa as the greatest egg producing state, the number being 100,000,000 dozen every year. Illinois comes next with 86,000,000 dozen each year. The annual product of eggs in the United States is $145,000,000. Great is the American hen.

Irving Rice says that the fancier alone has brought up the Leghorn to the great perfection it enjoys in America today. The utility breeder has had no hand in it.

Dr. P. T. Woods says there are a number of one-man egg-farms in Rhode Island that make $1,000 a year and over to pay for the owner's labor. They are in the business for life and their methods are very simple.

Cal Husselman says the prepared chick and poultry feeds are a delusion and a snare. You do not know what they are. A few acres of land will produce all the special crops necessary and wheat, corn and oats can always be bought from first hands at market price.

THE PEKIN DUCK

The Pekin duck is of Asiatic origin, and was imported to this country from China, about thirty years ago. Hughens says a traveler who saw them about the streets of Pekin, mistook them for small white geese at first, but upon finding that they were ducks, was so greatly impressed with their snow-white plumage and noble carriage that he secured some of their eggs. They were brought to Hong Kong and hatched, and in due time the birds were shipped in a vessel bound for New York. A number of the ducks died during the long voyage, but from the rest sprung this popular breed that is now met with in nearly every State of the Union.

A HOT ONE FOR THE SCORE CARD

IN judging poultry at either large or small shows the main object sought should be correct work and not quick work. The breeder who has spent the whole season in preparing his birds for the show room is far more interested in having them judged correctly than quickly. And any experienced judge will tell you that he can judge a show as quick by Score Card as he can by Comparison when his aim is to give every bird its proper place. The Score Card judge is compelled to qualify himself for his work. No poultryman of experience will dispute the fact that a competent judge can score the birds correctly and place the awards where they belong. And certainly no association should employ any but thoroughly competent judges. If the Score Card was the only method used in judging poultry there would to-day be less than half the number of men judging at our shows than now are. The exhibitor is entitled to the judge's written opinion of each and every specimen he pays his entry fee on. It shows him at least what the judge thinks of his birds, and whether it is shape or color that is defective, and also what section the throughout the country. No record is given to show just how good the winners are. A horse that can trot a mile in one minute at Athens, Tenn., is worth just as much as if he had made the record in New York or Chicago; and the bird that scores as much at the small show is worth as much as the one that scores the same at the large show. We are going on the theory that the judge is competent and that judging poultry is a science and not a farce. A horse's record is the fastest time he has ever made. A bird's record is the highest it has ever scored. More inaccuracies and more poor work are discovered in Score Card judging because you have the cards that show it up. In Comparison, if you had the judge's written opinion on each specimen he passed on you no doubt would find the same difference in judges' opinion and the same amount of rotten work. The Score Card soon places the judge where he belongs as to his ability to do correct work. Now let the poultrymen of America decide which is the best and most correct way of judging poultry, and adopt that method, regardless of whether it is the quickest or not. Correct work is never done quickly, and the association that endeavors to have all the ribbons up defects are in. Away back in the early eighties, when I first became interested in poultry, I attended a few shows at which the old veteran, B. N. Pierce, officiated. I closely watched his scoring at two shows, and there learned more about how to judge poultry than I could have possibly learned in years of study otherwise. And I know I can teach the amateur more in scoring his birds one time than I can by comparing them a dozen times. A bird scored at Madison Square 95 by Judge Smith is worth no more than one scoring 95 at a small show in Illinois by the same judge. The score of 95 gives the bird's record or value. So the winner at the small show has the same value as the winner at the large show, provided the score is the same and by the same judge; but take the same two birds and let one win at Madison Square and the other at the small show and the Madison Square winner will sell for ten times as much as the winner at the small show. It may possibly be to the interest of some of the large shows to hold to Comparison, as no one will ever know that the winners there are no better than hundreds of birds that are shown at the smaller shows the first day need not expect to have every specimen properly examined, judged and placed. When the Score Card is abandoned then you will see the smaller shows all over the country drop out, until finally only a few in such cities as New York, Chicago, etc., will hold shows. It is the Score Card that makes the small shows. Make the people of the country believe the Score Card is a farce and you will make them believe the judging of poultry is a farce. When only properly qualified judges are allowed to judge our shows and apply the Score Card, then will breeders have more respect for the Score Card and value it more. The A. P. A. should take hold of this matter and make it impossible for incompetent judges to get work. Hold to the Score Card, employ only judges that are fully competent to apply it, and the poultry interests will continue and increase.

It is too often the case that judges who have a pull with certain members of the Association are employed on this account, in place of their superior qualifications.—D. M. OWEN, in Poultry Fancier.

Vol 5

MARCH, 1909

No. 10

THE INDUSTRIOUS HEN is issued promptly on the first of each month. It furnishes the latest and most authoritative information obtainable on all matters relating to the Poultry Industry, Live Stock breeding and intensive farming. Contributions that are practical and pithy are solicited.

The Editor is not responsible and does not always endorse the opinions as expressed by his contributors.

Subscribers desiring a change in address will please give the old as well as the new postoffice.

ADVERTISING RATES

Furnished on application. The value of THE INDUSTRIOUS HEN as an advertising medium is unquestioned. The character of the advertisements now in its columns, and the number of them, tell the whole story. Circulation considered, it is the cheapest Poultry journal in the United States to advertise in. Advertisements, to insure insertion in the issue of any month, should reach this office

Not later than the 25th of the month preceding.

BREEDERS' CARDS—2 1-2 cents a word each month for one, two or three months; 2 cents a word each month for four or more months. A 25 word card will be run six months for $2.50, one year for $4.50. A small cut illustrating a breeder of 25 words or more will be used for 50 cents additional. Numbers and initials count as words. Please count the words correctly and avoid delay. We keep no books with this department and cash must invariably accompany the order.

SPECIAL NOTICE TO SUBSCRIBERS

Your Address on the wrapper indicates when your subscription expires. In order not to miss a number it should be renewed one month in advance. If, after your name appears the date "June 8," it means that your subscription is paid to June, 1908, and unless renewed will be discontinued after that date.

If a large letter "X" is stamped in the panel at the left of this paragraph, it means that the time for which you paid your subscription has expired, and, unless renewed before the next issue, will be discontinued; therefore, if you do not want to miss THE INDUSTRIOUS HEN, YOU SHOULD RENEW AT ONCE. Do not fail to send us either 50 cents to pay for your subscription for another year, or $1.00 to pay for the paper for the next three years. Better send $1.00 and have the best and most helpful and practical poultry journal found in the world coming to you regularly every month for the next three years.

SAMPLE COPIES

If you receive a sample copy of THE INDUSTRIOUS HEN you are invited to subscribe for it. You may never get another copy, and if you like it, mail us 50c for one year, or $1 and have it come to you for three years. Thousands are doing this now, and you will never regret it. In sending your subscription if you have a friend who would like to see a sample copy, send us their name and address, but send your own subscription RIGHT NOW. Do not put it off because you are busy, but DO IT NOW. Address THE INDUSTRIOUS HEN Co., Knoxville, Tenn.

Kind of incubator

IT PAYS to be careful about the kind of incubator you buy. You don't want to get one so cheap that it is of no account. Nor do you want to pay more than is necessary for fine ornamental work or greater capacity than you need. Study your case well and get what is exactly adapted to your business.—T.C.K.

The Southern Fancier

AFTER A short suspension this journal has again appeared, under the editor-and-proprietorship of H. F. Reils, and is welcomed by his many readers and the poultry fraternity. It is an excellent journal, a good medium, ably edited, nicely printed and does its part toward teaching "good poultry" throughout the South.—L.B.A.

Let the People Know

THE WORLD is full of people who want things and would like to know where to get them. If you have the things why not let them know? Do you have fine poultry or eggs for sale? Then advertise and let customers know where to send for them and at what price. This makes business and brings success. It not only helps you but helps others and makes the world better and happier.—T.C.K.

Tennessee Poultry Journal

THIS is the name of a bright, newsy poultry journal started at Lebanon, Tenn. It is full of reading matter and well displayed ads. and shows thrift on the surface. It is edited by Messrs. DePoy and Grigg, and the keynote expressed for starting this journal is "the firm belief in a great future for Tennessee as a poultry raising section." This belief is well founded. Tennessee is in the front rank of poultry producing states and is increasing every day. Our opportunities were never brighter for forging to the front and we welcome this new journal in our midst as a teacher and a leader.—L.B.A.

Judge S. T. Campbell for Secretary

PROBABLY no candidate in the field for Secretary of the A. P. A. is receiving the endorsement that Judge Campbell is. The Tri-State Poultry Association of Wheeling, W. Va., recently passed resolutions strongly endorsing his candidacy, and following are some of the prominent poultrymen who are promising their support and calling for his election: Thos. F. Rigg, Pres. Mid-West Branch, Ill., Ind., Iowa, Mich., and Wis.; U. R. Fishel, Ind.; J. P. Halpin, Mich.; Horace Atwood, W. Va.; C. J. Andrews, N. Y.; J. L. Anderson, Wash.; James E. Rice, N. Y., and D. Lincoln Orr, N. Y. Judge Campbell, although of Ohio, is a native of Virginia and has spent most of his life in the South and should go in as the South's candidate. He is an indefatigable worker, a man of mature judgment, has had experience on the Board, is an able organizer, a judge of wide knowledge, a poultry raiser and lecturer, and one in every way well qualified for the position. We need such a business man as Judge Campbell, and believe that we would make no mistake in electing him.—L.B.A.

Study Your Business

NO MATTER what you undertake, it is necessary to study your business. The poultry business is no exception. The man who thinks he will make a fortune in one year is doomed to failure. It requires not only study but long experience. All the little ins and outs of the business must be learned by actual contact. What breed to select, how to house your birds, how to feed, how to secure eggs, how to hatch, how to grow the young fowls, how to procure feed, how to market products, how to keep down expenses and yet get best results—all these and a hundred more points must be carefully considered and carried out to a successful issue. The man who does not realize that successful poultry-keeping requires study and work would better let it severely alone. It is no holiday job as so many seem to suppose. You must think about it by day and by night. Of course, if hens laid eggs at word of command the problem would be easy, but they do not. It often takes the poultryman's highest art of coaxing to get any action at all. And yet for the man who is zealous and fitted for the work the poultry business has a rich reward. It never gave greater promise than today. Thousands of people are making money at it and there is room for thousands more.—T.C.K.

THE INDUSTRIOUS HEN ON THE WING

BY L. B. AUDIGIER

INDIANAPOLIS, INDIANA

The Indianapolis show was knee deep in quality. Tomlinson Hall was full and overflowing. THE INDUSTRIOUS HEN had a nice booth, and was much in evidence. Western Advertising Representative B. W. Rhoads and Mr. H. V. Tormohlen, local agent at Indianapolis, were there and helped to receive our friends. Southern Indiana folks are so much like Southerners, and THE HEN had so many friends among them, that she felt very much at home.

The poultry show was held in connection with the dog show, and while both were good each hurt the other. Arrangements have been made to hold the two shows separately next year. The following officers of the Poultry Association were elected: Wm. Tobin, Pres.; C. H. Millhouse, Sec.; Frank P. Johnson, Treas., both Indianapolis; Charles Buschmann, 1st Vice Pres.; A. B. Carter, 2nd Vice Pres.; U. R. Fishel, 3rd Vice Pres.; B. S. Meyers, 4th Vice Pres.; Thomas Campbell, 5th Vice Pres. Executive Committee: A. L. Weckler, E. J. Barker, Ed N. Maish, W. A. Stolts and Theodore Hughes.

Inland Sweepstakes for W. P. Rocks, won by Preston Condit; association and club cups for W. Wyandottes, I. M. Armstrong; association cup for Col. Wyandottes, Henry Maxwell; association cup for Buff Wyandottes, A. H. Richter; association cup for R. C. Brown Leghorns, Harvey Preston; club cup, Charles Millhouse; association cup, Buff Orpingtons, C. E. Fisher; club cup, A. E. Martz; association cup, Polish, Miss Lou Ehman; club and association cups, S. C. R. I. Reds, Hanson Poultry Company of Portsmouth, O.; association cup on R. C. R. I. Reds, J. E. Robbins; club cup, C. G. Buschmann; association and club cups on R. C. White Leghorns, Fred Peters; association club, Black Langshans, Nelson Rice; club cup, G. W. Wilkins & Co.; association cup, S. C. Buff Leghorns, Frederick Richter; club cup, Peter Hurt.

The Hansen Poultry Co., of Portsmouth, O., had a beautiful exhibit of Reds. They were in charge of Mr. C. N. Hansen, and many were the expressions of admiration that they received. In the single comb class his birds took first and fifth prizes for cocks, second for hens, first and second for cockerels and a special prize for the best colored and best shaped male. In the R. C. class, with five entries, five prizes were won, including first and second for hen, third for cockerel, second and fourth for pullet, and special for the best shaped female. These prizes were awarded in competition with 163 Rhode Island Reds from nine different states.

The Hansen birds hold one record of which their owner is particularly proud, that of being the only chickens that have been awarded all first prizes of single entries at the New York and Chicago poultry shows in the same season and also taking the most prizes at the St. Louis World's Fair.

The Rocks were a strong class. In Barred Simpson got first cock, hen and cockerel. On Whites, Condit, first cock, hen, cockerel, pullet and pen. Mann, fourth hen and second pen. Buff, Wheeler, first cock, hen, cockerel, pullet and pen. McCullough, Anderson, Ind., 3 ck, 4 hen, 2 pul, 5 pen; Sando, Potsdam, O., 3, 5 ck, 3, 4 ckl, 4 pul. Naftzger, 1 ck, pul, pen. White Wyandottes, Geo. F. Schmidt, Martinsville, Ind., had a handsome string and won some first prizes, as did also Dillon, of Cincinnati. In Partridge Wyandottes, Phillips, 1 ck and hen. Rudy, 1, 3, 4 ckl, 1, 5 pul. Columbian Wyandottes, Nuttall, 1 ck, 3 hen, 2, 3 ckl, 1 pul. Dillon, 1, 2 hen, 1, 5 ckl, 2, 3 pul, 1 pen. In White Holland Turkeys Len Cresswell, Fairland, Ind., won 1 ck, 2 hen, 2, 4 pul. Walter J. Clark, Danville, Ind., showed some good W. P. Rocks, White Wyandottes, Cochins, Bantams and White Orpingtons. The following breeders made creditable exhibits and won their share of prizes: T. A. Rynerson, White Orpingtons, J. W. Stanley, Langshans and Turkeys, Mrs. Ed. Frost, White Langshans, Geo. M. Geckler, Lakenvelders, Vernon Plunket, B. P. Rocks, Frank L. Aviatt & Son, S. C. R. I. Reds, A. E. Martz, S. C. Buff Orpingtons, B. F. Ulrey, Bronze Turkeys, B. H. Scranton, S. C. R. I. Reds, River Home Poultry Yards, Light Brahmans and B. P. Rocks—these gentlemen had a large and beautiful exhibit. George H. Rudy's White Wyandottes caused considerable admiration and comment. Mr. Rudy's birds also won first prizes in 1908 at Chicago and Peoria shows. The Eureka and The P. G. Townsend trap nest people interested many people with their patents. The trap nest is growing more and more in popular favor. It will eventually be used exclusively for breeders, and for pedigreeing stock.

Indianapolis is a beautiful city and has many enthusiastic breeders of fine birds. After leaving here we visited the State Fair at Tampa, Fla., and for a week enjoyed the balmy breezes and refreshing sunshine of that delightful climate. The poultry department was presided over by Mrs. T. L. Trousdale, a lady of unusual ability and energy. Florida exemplified the fact that she could have more than one state poultry show at a time, for one was in full blast at St. Petersburg, and naturally divided birds and interest. Mrs. Trousdale had her birds nicely cooped and well arranged. She had the assistance, advice and encouragement of the officers of the State Fair, who appreciated the value of Mrs. Trousdale's work. Mr. W. F. Stoval, the able secretary and general manager, is himself a poultryman, and under his watchful eye no interest of the fair suffered. Among those who exhibited and won prizes we indebted to The Tribune of Tampa, as follows: Wm. P. Woodsworth, Partridge and Barred Rocks; C. C. Woodward, B. P. Rocks; W. F. Stoval, B. R. Bantams; A. H. Snyder, Buff Cochins, G. Wyandottes, Anconas, B. Langshans, W. C. Polish and Houdans; Collier Bros., S. C. R. I. Reds; Mike Coward, S. C. W. Leghorns and C. C. Pearce, Buff Leghorns. A full list of the specials are shown on another page. On my return from Tampa, I stopped off a few hours at Winter Park, the garden spot of Central Florida, and took dinner with the great S. C. R. I. Red breeder, C. Fred Ward. I enjoyed the short time, visiting his interesting family, seeing his orange, lemon and grapefruit orchards, and his famous Reds. His partner, Mr. Lane, I found with the chickens, raising them out in the open and from nice little fellows to fliers in February. He had about 1,000 and about 10,000 more to come. I never saw the like of youngsters, and already they are showing their blood. I must rush to catch my train, for down in Florida they don't wait.

Eggs the Object

WHILE the fancier may breed for color and ideal form, the paramount object of poultry culture must be eggs. More people are interested in this feature of poultry products than in any other. How shall eggs be best obtained? Back of direct feeding and management comes increased power of production in the hens themselves. The trap nest enables the grower to select his most prolific hens and these he sets apart for breeding purposes. Say what you may, the general capacity of hens for egg production can be greatly increased under the laws of evolution. The upward climb from the original jungle fowl shows this. By properly growing your fowls in pens from year to year the evils of inbreeding may be avoided. Culling out the poorest layers and preserving the best will constantly increase the average egg-producing capacity of your fowl. All that is necessary is to continuously apply the law of development. What the ultimate result may be is only conjectural.—T.C.K.

Poultry Instruction

IT IS ONLY in recent years that State Agricultural Colleges have turned their attention to instruction in poultry culture. The state of New York is perhaps doing most and now has 150 students in its poultry course at Cornell University. There is no line of farm industry that is making more rapid advances than that of poultry. In a recent article, Prof. James E. Rice of Cornell, gives an interesting account of poultry work done in colleges and experiment stations. The first poultry bulletin was issued from the Maine station in 1885. Last year 30 bulletins were published from the various colleges and experiment stations of the United States and Canada. In these bulletins the various phases of poultry keeping have been elucidated. In one case it was shown that starving hens to promote molt was a losing proposition. In other experiments grit and lime were shown to be absolutely necessary to profitable results. One station found that skim milk is a most desirable substitute for meat and pays better when fed to fowls than perhaps any other kind of animals. A saving of 75 per cent. in labor is saved by a device of brooding in large numbers. The hopper system for dry feed is also demonstrated as a labor saving method. In many other ways progress has been made in establishing well defined principles in poultry keeping.—T. C. K.

P-POULTRY SECRETS DISCLOSED—

Is this cock properly held? "Poultry Secrets" tells you how to carry fowls, and scores of secrets far more important and hitherto unrevealed.

We offer to all poultry raisers the essential knowledge and secret methods of many of the most successful poultrymen of America. As a rule, these secrets have been guarded with extreme care, for it is on them that the great successes have been built. They have cost years of labor and thousands of dollars. They will cost YOU only a trifle and a few minutes to write us.

How We Obtained These Secrets

Michael K. Boyer, our poultry editor, has had exceptional opportunities and the closest friendship with poultrymen all over the country. They have freely told him many of their most jealously treasured secrets, many others we have bought, and this scattered material, together with several of Mr. Boyer's own valued methods, has now been collected in book form. It must be clearly understood that every secret printed has been obtained in an honorable way.

DR. WOODS' EGG FOOD SECRET

Dr. P. T. Woods authorizes the publication of his system for producing large quantities of sterile eggs for market. Every poultryman who raises eggs for market must know Dr. Wood's method to be up with the times, and every householder who supplies only his or her own table will appreciate an increased quantity of the highest quality eggs for table use.

Boyer's secret of securing fertile eggs by alternating males we believe is worth $100 to any big producer of eggs for hatching, either for his own incubators or selling to others for fancy stock. It is something new, and the diagrammatic illustration furnished by Mr. Boyer makes the matter so plain that the novice can easily understand it. This system is already practiced, or about to be introduced, in many of the largest plants in the country.

I. K. FELCH'S MATING SECRET

Many years ago Mr. Felch, one of the best known figures in the poultry world, published his breeding chart, but later realizing its great importance and value to him, he withdrew it and kept the information for himself. He has now given Mr. Boyer permission to use this system, and it is included in this book.

THE SECRET OF FEED AT 15 CENTS A BUSHEL

An enterprising poultryman has been advertising this secret for $5 and pledging those who buy it not to disclose it to anyone else; it has, however, long been known to a few poultrymen, Mr. Boyer among them, and the method is fully explained in "Poultry Secrets."

SO-CALLED "SYSTEMS" EXPLAINED

A number of "system" and secret recipes have been, and still are, sold at high prices. Some are good, but not new; some are new, but of little value. Some are worth the money paid for them. "Poultry Secrets" gives the facts.

SELECTING THE LAYING HENS

Since the production of eggs is the very basis of the poultry industry, the ability to tell the laying hens in the flock quickly, without the aid of trap nests, will put dollars in your pocket. Do not keep on feeding the rooster hens.

Of course we cannot go to the length of saying that all the information in the book is new to everyone. It is said there is nothing new under the sun, and the Egyptians were hatching eggs by artificial heat centuries ago; but we do say that, to the great majority of poultrymen, these secrets are absolutely unknown.

WE WILL PAY $10.00 FOR ANY SECRET NOT IN THE BOOK provided it is practical and valuable. If it is something both good and new, a check for Ten Dollars will be sent at once. In submitting secrets, address all communications to the

POULTRY DEPARTMENT OF FARM JOURNAL

"Farm Journal" for thirty years has conducted a poultry department known the country over for the ability of its editors and the value of its contents. Besides this strong section, which of itself makes the paper valuable to every chicken owner, its other departments are ably conducted and widely quoted. It is the Standard farm and home paper of the country, with already more than three million readers. It is clean, bright, intensely practical; boiled down cream; not skim milk. Its editors and contributors know what they are talking about, and can quit when they have said it. It is for the gardener, fruitman, stockman, trucker, farmer, villager, suburbanite, the women folks, the boys and girls. It is illustrated and well printed on good paper. It has not a medical or trashy advertisement in it. Its more than half million subscribers pay five and ten years ahead—a very remarkable fact.

Here is enough egg producing green food for 100 hens. Grown in January it cost five (5) cents for seed. "Poultry Secrets" explains this secret and many others.

We will send a copy of "Poultry Secrets" and FARM JOURNAL for five years, both for only $1.00

TURKEY TALK

MRS. J. C. SHOFNER

Egg Season With TurkeysWritten for the Industrious Hen.

This is naturally and practically an egg season, and every turkey breeder is supposed to have his breeding stock selected, mated and penned by the first of March—ready to gather and mark eggs for shipment or incubation. Probably some amateur would be interested in how we manage to get all the eggs our turkeys lay without having to walk miles each evening to get them from their nests in the woods, or far across the fields in some special fence corner. When a turkey has seen fit to deposit her prize, nature has given her the instinct to hide. I use pens, of as much size as we can afford to fence in with five foot wire, this should be sown in some kind of forage for green food, for egg production. In this pen we should place coops or old barrels and throw some grass for nests and brush or weeds over coop to have a woods effect. Then place a nest egg in nest, shovel off earth taken out and grass thrown in this place to prevent eggs from rolling out. I have had them make nests in house or barn where they had access, and many times sit in same place they lay. I do not like pens close together where there are more than one pen kept—but should be at least fifty or one hundred yards apart. I think all turkey nature is to lay some time from 9 a. m. to 2 o'clock p. m., and one pen can be turned out every day to range for food that they may need, that possibly is not in pen. They always seem to relish that, that they can pick up in small particles most. After they once make a nest and lay one or two eggs there they may wander off for food, but will return to nest in pen to lay, and if pen is closed she will worry quite a while to get in to nest before she will leave and go elsewhere to lay.

During laying season one must attend to business strictly, or suffer loss. Every afternoon I take my basket and pencil and gather up my turkey eggs—mark each egg, date egg was laid, and number of pen it came from, so in selling or shipping I can give customers a cross of blood and I can mark poult when hatched so I can select and mate pens for customers in the next fall and winter season which have no relation to each other. The question of shipping eggs for hatching is not such a puzzle as it once was, and express agents are not any more careful of them either, than in the past, but breeders have learned how to pack better. I rarely ever have any complaint of broken eggs or bad hatch, because I am careful to select fresh, well shaped eggs, and pack securely in clean odorless packing stuff.

I hope all turkeydom will be successful this season and every breeder will be repaid for his or her energy—put forth in the Spring to raise a nice flock. The past has been one of the most successful years of my life, and one of the most pleasant, because of the satisfactory reports from my customers—and the remuneration for same has also been very pleasant. I hope to raise another fine flock this season as my breeding stock is exceptionally fine and healthy. Healthy poult can not come from unhealthy breeding stock. They may flourish for awhile and grow off until they are half or two-thirds grown before they show their weakness and then weaken and die one by one. I will write on "Care of the Poult" for April, as that is the time to be refreshed in mind of our experiences. I would like to hear from others in Turkey Department. Questions answered by me personally and in THE HEN if desired. Wishing success to all turkeydom, I am

PIGEONS AND BANTAMS
E. E. PRYOR

Pigeon History

Written for the Industrious Hen:

Three thousand two hundred years before Christ Egyptian history first mentions pigeons, which existed in the fourth dynasty. A stone tablet bill of fare mentioned it among its items for the satisfaction of the inner man, as one of the delicacies of the season. The likeness of the pigeon is chiseled in stone at this early date and gives a fair picture of the bird as it exists today. There were several varieties in the East Indies at that time, but the real home of scientific pigeon breeding is considered to be among the Egyptians and the Orientals. The early Greeks, Romans, Egyptians, etc., loved the pigeon and almost revered it to the extent that it was favored by their respective gods, and almost became an idol to many of the superstitious inhabitants of the Orient. The Romans placed it as the bird of Venus, the Greeks worshipped it as the ownership of the Goddess Aphrodite, and large flocks were kept on the island of Cyprus in her honor. Pigeons were also used by the Persians, Romans and Egyptians as a means of communication or messengers. Whether in war or athletic games they liberated their birds to bring the glad tidings home in advance, that preparation might be ready to receive the victors.

Five hundred and thirty years before Christ is found the earliest record of a regular pigeon service. With the Persians and Egyptians, a Homer pigeon as a defined race was then unknown. Doves and pigeons are spoken of in the Bible quite frequently. Noah's birds were in the Ark. Moses made a law combining turtle doves and squabes for Thanksgiving purposes, and many were the birds offered in the sanctuary of Jerusalem; hucksters obliterated the arcades of the building, offering them for sale to the worshippers; at the Mount of Olives a large establishment was flourishing called "Pigeon Rock," having a loft that would accommodate about 5,000 birds; all this 550 years before Christ. The Bible also mentions the pigeon (dove) as a symbol of purity, peace, patience and love. Babylonian history also mentions about this same time tame pigeons, and we can assume that tame birds were imported about this time from India.

Aristotle who died in 322 B. C., and Plinus, the elder, who died in 79 A. D., wrote of early collections of rare varieties. Columella, 60 A. D., gives us the information that $25 was paid for a single pair of pigeons by a Roman. This amount of money at that time represented a small fortune, much more so than at present, and the Roman was certainly a sport or a rare crank parted from his money. Pigeons were divided into three classes by Varro 120 years before Christ, viz: wild, tame, and a cross between both. His description of the lofts of that day fits closely with our modern lofts, and he also describes their feeding process. Albert Mangus, who died in the early Middle Ages, wrote of pigeons, and Konrad Gesner, of Switzerland, who died 1565, gave two varieties—field and dove—cote pigeons. Aldrovandi, an Italian professor at Bologna, 1522-1605, wrote of high class birds in 1600. From that time to the present many varieties have been bred, sold and distributed in all parts of the world. The monks of the Middle Ages deserve a great deal of credit for the large variety of various colored pigeons, which appear to have been their hobby to produce; and their occupation did not deter them from being good fanciers. They laid the foundation for much of our present day varieties. They knew a good squab and loved to eat as well as we, and it was their pride to produce a toothsome squab. When a strange or new color was hatched, they set it aside and improved upon it in color and size, and its improvement was continuously studied by them.

Not every person loved pigeons then, any more than today with us, especially if they bothered neighbors. In 1299 a law was passed and enforced in Central Europe, making it a fine of fifty pounds on any person raising, or keeping pigeons in the city. In France the keeping of pigeons was the right of the nobility only. The flying pigeon sport was in vogue 2000 years ago in Modena. At present pigeon flying is one of the greatest sports of continental Europe. There are places in Europe where it is impossible to rent a house without a pigeon fly or the right to erect and maintain one.—E. E. PRYOR.

In answer to the many inquiries I have received regarding the tardiness of the catalogue, I wish to say that it is not the Secretary's fault, as he had the copy in the hands of the printer January 10. It seems that it was delayed in the freight. However, it was only a few days late, and I appreciate the interest taken in it by the members. Don't let it become misplaced or mutilated. It is the spokesman of your Club, and as such should receive your special care. Keep it in a safe place, where the baby can't get it and the mice can't use it for their homes. If you have already lost your copy, the Secretary will mail you another, but remember that these catalogues and their postage cost money, and are not to be pitched about like papers of the 10c-per-year class. We should keep in mind the fact that our next catalogue is coming, and we should begin now to make it as great an improvement over the present issue as this one is over its predecessor. A big list of members helps a great deal, so we could make a better catalogue by getting more members. The mere fact that a club has a large number of members upon its roll boosts that club along, not counting the fee that each member is expected to pay. Then, too, in getting a new member you will also be moving one notch nearer to one or more of the prizes listed in the catalogue. These are: three subscriptions to poultry journals, one pair of Muffed Tumblers, one pair of White Homers, one setting White Wyandotte eggs, one setting Rhode Island Red eggs. If you want to donate one for publication in the next catalogue, write the Secretary about it now. This is a good advertisement for anyone.

THE DOG

Airedales, the Master Dog

Written for The Industrious Hen by Dr. L. C. Toney, Humboldt, Ariz.

Professor Brandl of Berlin and Prof. Williams, of England, say that the purest English is spoken in America. Now whether it is a spirit of purity or something else, I shall attempt to tell what the root of this word, Airedale is. About 40 years ago, when the dog fanciers of that country, where they know what a good dog is, began breeding the dog under consideration, it was in the valley of the Aire river that the Otter hound was crossed with the Bull Terrier, that product with the Scotch terrier, that with the Scotch Collie, that with the Pointer, and that with the Setter dog and then the standard having been secured, the crossing was discontinued. In that dale of the Aire, then, was the great breed of dogs first experimented upon, that made the Airedale.

THE OTTER HOUND.

The Otter hound is a hardy intelligent, and courageous dog that not only swims in the coldest of rivers after Otter, but he trails the game on land and then gives battle and fights to death the object of its pursuit. Its coat is very hard, rough and bushy, and it knows no defeat or exhaustion from any cause and this is largely why his descendants are so hardy and tough in both water combats and those of the land. Surely the Otter hound is one that any dog should be proud to be related to.

SOME ANCIENT ANTECEDENTS NOT USUALLY READ ABOUT.

The canidae divided into the (1) aeluroidea; (2) cynoidea, and (3) arctoidea.

When recently a "female woman" came to my back yard and asked me why my "puppies look so much like bears," little did that poor "klutchman" think that she was passing a compliment instead of a stricture upon those innocent dumb canines with the best of a pedigree behind them and her pedigree might not be traced so readily as the puppy's. She was not aware of the fact that history tells us, that the cat, the dog, and the bear, are all from the same family. The Scotch terrier digs for herbs and roots, so does Bruin. The Airedale and Scotch terrier get higher than the level of their bodies to see long distances, the terrier last named getting on his hind feet to look, so does Bruin; thus in many of their present habits, even, do they resemble one another. Bears and cats did not appear until the Pliocene period. The dog is a sort of a "missing link" between the bear and cat type.

GREATEST AIREDALE YET PRODUCED.

Champion Cloñmel Monarch, the dog that was imported from England, taken to Philadelphia, dying in that city about a year ago, sold for a large sum of money on this side, selling first at a show in England, for a mere pittance, the farmer owning him not knowing his real value. A dog with his blood coursing through his veins, can be proud of the fact that he is "blooded."

OF MANY AND FERTILE UTILITIES.

He is a hunter, retriever, trailer of coon, possum, bear, lion, wildcat, mink, coyote, deer, lynx, fox or small game. He fights when attacked but does not "hunt trouble." He fights and kills badger, wildcat, coyote, coon, possum or skunk and the writer's dog, Major Demon, killed a badger in a fight three months ago, the photograph of the two taking a rest during the fight, shown in the picture herewith.

A WATCH DOG.

As a watch dog he has no superior, and yet he does not savagely bite and attack people like some dogs but gives them to understand that they must stay where they belong.

A ONE MASTER DOG, TRUE TO DEATH.

The dog that stayed with its master till the frozen body of its master was lifeless and then dragged him to his home, four miles away from the spot where death overtook him, was an Airedale.

POLICE DOGS.

The dogs that took the prize for policing the criminals at the Madison Square Garden fair last year, that took the prize for the best suicide retriever in England, France, and Germany, was of the Airedale breed. The one that has been used for years in France to prevent the drowning of suicidal melancholics, is the Airedale.

The ones that are used more than any other ones in the cities of America, are the Airedales. The ones that are universally recognized as being the only real vermin exterminators, are the Airedales. The ones that all hunters of game of the bear kind, the world over, have found to be "ready on the spot" and not afraid to be there when needed and yet not get killed when the bear or other animal gives fight, is the Airedale. The one that has the same grit that the Bull Terrier has and more intelligence, is the Airedale.

SWIMMERS.

The writer will test his Airedales, (for money), with any other breed in the world with regard to their swimming qualities, to see whether any other kind can swim with them, feeling sure that the Airedales can do water tricks that no others can do. He has seen them do these things in water and knows whereof he speaks. They can swim against stream, remain stationary in the swift current, dive or fight in the water, stay in till any other breed would be exhausted, then come out and play as

HONEY BEE

Bee Notes

Who knows anything of a book on honey-bearing flowers? Such a book would be very useful to the bee-keeper. Somebody ought to write one.

If you don't want brood in your extracting frames put a queen excluder under them. This is especially necessary when the brood chamber is shallow.

Don't put new swarms on frames without good starters. They are nearly sure to build crooked and give you trouble. Getting rid of such combs is quite a bother.

The pure food law has been a great boon to the bee-keeper. Nothing else ever did so much to raise the price of honey. It creates confidence in the consumer.

Get hives ready for swarms. They will be out soon and you don't want to be caught napping. You may also want some supers ready to go on about the time of fruit-bloom.

There is no objection to moving bees in winter when they cannot fly. In changing our yard we did it once with success. Half a dozen bees may have returned and been lost.

The adulterators of honey and other foods are after Dr. Wiley's scalp, but he suits bee-keepers all right. Write to the Secretary of Agriculture in favor of retaining him if you want to do a good thing.

Sow Seeds

It is now time to sow seeds for bee pasture. Every bee-keeper should be zealous in this work. All the waste land in his vicinity should teem with wild flowers bearing the precious nectar. Sow white clover and sweet clover by the roadside and in the pasture fields. No better honey plants can be propagated. Catnip seed should also be scattered in all rich places about the garden and barn lots.

Storing Honey

Many persons store their honey in a cool place like the cellar. This is founded on a mistaken idea which has long prevailed. Honey keeps better in a warm dry place. The more it dries out the better it is. Dampness makes it thin and watery. If the temperature can be kept at 80 to 95 degrees so much the better. In this way your unsealed honey will ripen and become thick and good.

Selling Honey

Good honey will sell itself if given half a chance. The first art of selling is to have something everybody wants and honey is that thing.

Comb honey sells for most in pound sections. It has been bringing 20 cents this season in the Knoxville market. That is a fine price and ought to stimulate production rapidly.

Extracted honey sells best in clear glass jars of various sizes to suit customers, but the quart is perhaps best. The Mason fruit jar does not look quite so attractive as regular honey jars but does very well and is inexpensive.

You must be social and make friends in order to become a good salesman. With the right art you can sell more in offices and among business men than at their homes unless you combine it with the regular delivery of other products.

Cheapness in Honey

In selling honey, show your customer how cheap it is. When he buys beef-steak he gets three times as much water as he does in buying honey. At the same price per pound honey is far the cheaper.

So with other foods. In buying many of them you are paying mostly for water. Some vegetables like turnips are more than 90 per cent water. In fact there is very little real nutriment in them. Although classed as a liquid, honey has less water in it than almost any other food. It usually contains less than 20 per cent of water.

Honey is also one of the most wholesome foods you can buy. It is far more easily digested than cane sugar and much more wholesome. When it goes into the stomach it is ready to be absorbed into the system at once. It is very fine for kidney trouble and in many other ways is used as a medicine.

WYANDOTTES

I own today some of the best Wyandottes in the South. For the past 18 years I have bred, sold and exhibited White Wyandottes, during that time I have bred and sold many winners. My matings this season are without doubt the finest I ever put together. I want to sell you eggs that will hatch chicks that will be heard from the coming year. $2.00 and $3.00 per 15. My Columbian Wyandottes are of the same high quality. Just watch me come up in this variety. Eggs $2.50 per 15. Catalogue telling all about my winners.

BERRIES AND TRUCK

T. C. KARNS

The Editor's Short-Stops

Fruit is still all right where the grower is an expert in cultivation and spraying. More good fruit can now be grown by such men than ever before. But that is the only way.

This is a great day of specialities and everyone who would succeed must read closely the periodical that represents his line of work. Generalizing about anything is pretty much a thing of the past.

We should be glad to have you mail us all accounts of berry and fruit matters that may appear in your local periodicals. We cannot print all but may get some points that will be of general interest to readers of THE HEN.

Have you sprayed your orchard? The time has come when you will soon have no orchard without spraying. Trees infested with San Jose scale produce fruit of almost no value if any at all. To spray is a job—no doubt of it—but it is the only way to keep an orchard.

The dried fruit industry has become very extensive in New York state and pays handsomely. It is the means of saving a big lot of second and third grade fruit which would otherwise rot. It would pay equally well in the South and would save millions of peaches that are now lost.

In every farming community some one should make a speciality of furnishing early vegetable plants. Cabbage, tomatoes, sweet potatoes, etc., can often be bought from a specialist cheaper than they can be produced at home. The greenhouse product is also better than that from a hotbed.

A Tree Ladder

Fruit gathering requires a special form of ladder where the grower indulges in tall trees. It is generally made of a pole sawed or split from one end to within a foot of the other where an iron band prevents further cleavage. Spread the two sides out like the letter A and insert rounds at proper intervals. This may be done either by boring holes or by nailing on cleats.

The pointed form of such a ladder enables one to insert it among the limbs with less trouble of entanglement and friction.

This is an old idea which has been published in one form or another many times. Yet it will always be new and helpful to somebody.

Use of Muck

Some years ago we visited Florida and while there met a retired capitalist from New York City. He had gone into the orange and truck business as a sort of diversion and at the time was getting muck out of a swamp to fertilize his lands.

It is true that muck is full of humus, but being covered with water its bacterial life has perished and its composition is sour and unproductive. Under such conditions the nitrates upon which the plants feed are not formed.

Such a substance as muck must be exposed to the air and sweetened with lime before it can be made available for the production of crops.

It does not pay to apply raw muck to cultivated lands. It should be gotten out in the fall and mixed with lime and then subjected to winter freezes. Bacteria can then go to work and produce plant food for the nourishment of plants.

Economy of Space

If you can make your land bring two crops at the same time, why not? It will certainly be a great gain for the owner. For instance, fruit and truck run well together. In the first few years of an apple orchard vegetables may be grown between the rows as well as not. The fruit in prospect will pay for the orchard and so the vegetables are clear. Counting in this way some growers claim to have paid for the land in two years. Irish potatoes are one of the best filler crops. Peas and beans are also good, especially since they leave nitrogen in the ground to enrich it.

Does Spraying Pay?

Of course it pays. Nothing else does pay in these degenerate days of fungus growth and insect pests. No regular fruit grower now thinks of anything else than to spray his fruit trees. Occasionally there may be an off year when diseases and pests are not evident. Then spraying may not add much, but the Nebraska State Horticultural Society reports the gain in 1906-7 in spraying for codling moth and apple scale as $2.13 per tree or about $85 per acre.

Trolley Market

Farmers in the North now market their fruit and truck by trolley cars. Instead of driving in from 16 to 30 miles they now load their stuff in packages on the trolley car. The city dealer is then notified by telephone and in a short time his packages of fresh country berries and fruit are delivered at his place of business. Of course not all farmers and fruit growers are yet so fortunately situated but the number increases rapidly from year to year.

KELLEY'SChampion Exhibition*Barred Rocks

Winners in the fastest company wherever exhibited and can win for you.

I have for sale a few High Class Cocks, Hens, Pullets and Cockerels, in either breeders or exhibition birds, and if in need of something fancy, write me. My birds are noted for their size and steel blue barring, and are great layers, as well as the best of exhibition birds. They have won more prizes this season exhibited by me in person than all their competitors combined. I make this statement and can prove it by facts and figures. Note their show record at Augusta, Ga., Nov. 2-7th, 1908.

1-3 Cockerels, 1-2 Hens, (two entered) 1-2-4 Pullets, 2nd Pen, no Cock birds shown, and at Charleston, S. C., Dec. 8-12th, 1908, they won 1-2-3-4 Cockerels, 1-3 Cocks, (two entered) 1st Pullet, 1st and 2nd Pens. I won a total of 50 points and all my competitors together in a class of 73 Barred Rocks only got 36 points together. They have also won at Charlotte, and Asheville, N. C., Augusta, Ga., Greenville and Rock Hill, S. C., Knoxville, Tenn.

I can furnish you a show bird for the January show that can win or your money back, or a high class breeder to improve your stock.

Will have for sale after January first, 1909, eggs from the best Pens of Barred Rocks ever mated in the South, and that will certainly produce you prize winning birds. Price $3.00 per 13, or two settings for $5.00. I make a specialty of Barred Rocks and have spared neither pains or expense in purchasing for my foundation stock the best that money or brains could produce.

SAFE BROWN HEAVY WEIGHT POULTRY FENCE

Does Not cost one-half as much as the Common Chicken Netting, yet will last five times as long.

Size of Wires. The top and bottom wires are No. 9 gauge—same size as nearly all stock fences. Intermediate and stay wires in same proportion.

Quality of Wire. All material used in Brown Poultry Fence is best grade of High Carbon, Double Strength Spring Steel Wire. The galvanizing is the heaviest and best possible. All wire is subjected to careful inspection and acid tests before being made into fence.

Construction. Very closely woven, and a sure protection against marauding animals. Your poultry is safe from everything when enclosed with Brown Fence. Built of material heavy and strong enough for horses and cattle. Wires cannot possibly slip.

Saving in Cost. With a No. 9 top and bottom wire you can save at least one-half the posts, and besides you require no top railing or bottom boards. These items alone usually cost more than the fence.

Price. Our prices are less than common netting costs. WE PAY THE FREIGHT and guarantee safe delivery to your nearest railway station.

Guarantee. We guarantee every rod of our Poultry Fence. Every customer who buys this fence and does not find it entirely satisfactory and fully up to his expectations is at liberty to return the same at our expense.

Before buying Poultry Fence get our catalog and investigate the many superior qualities of our fencing. We have 150 styles of fencing—a fence for every purpose. Write today.

Lauderdale County Poultry Show

Held at Ripley, Tenn., Jan. 7, 8, and 9, 1909. Poultry enthusiasm was never higher in Lauderdale county than it was at the time of our show, and we would have had a great show, but for the fact that a sweeping blizzard struck the country on the very eve of the show and the exhibitors were therefore forced to keep their birds at home and the Association was therefore deprived of many nice strings of birds. Notwithstanding this great misfortune, the devotees of the poultry industry rallied and brought forward a few hundred birds of rare merit—they were so good that the management drew the conclusion that the cold weather froze the enthusiasm of the mediocre who kept his exhibit at home, but the real fancier was undaunted and brought forth the good birds, which made the show as a whole a selection of rare individuality in all breeds.

The predominating color was all but in keeping with our national emblem—it was Red, White and Black—the stately Rhode Island Reds were such as to inspire each champion of the breed with an air of success and an ambition to "conquer still other worlds"—the beautiful little White Leghorn was there in such number and of such strength of individuality that his companions felt that "competition open to the world" would not cause him to tremble on the eve of a great show—the Black Minorca with his striking appearance and great egg record provoked in his advocates an ambition little short of a determination to attempt to rival the success of the great Northup.

But these three colors were not all by any means, for the White Wyandotte, the White Plymouth Rocks, the Sherwoods, the Brown Leghorns (the Rose Comb Browns), the Black Devil Games, the Barred Rocks and the Gol-

Ringlet Barred Rocks. E. B. Thompson has won at Madison Square Garden, N. Y., a total of 101 prizes; 48 of these are firsts and specials. My stock are direct descendants from E. B. Thompson's prize winners. They are good winter layers. Eggs, cockerel or pullet mating, $1.50 for 15. Garrette E. Bailey, Route 1, Box 64, Jonesboro, Tenn.

den Wyandottes were equally as good as a whole as the other classes. The Turkeys represented by the popular Bourbon Reds and the Mammoth Bronze were a treat.

Makes Chicks Grow

2 lbs. at 7 weeks

"Have fed Lee's Egg Maker and Chick Grower to my little chicks for a number of years, always giving it to them after they were three weeks old, and when they are seven weeks old have them weighing two pounds each and they are only scrubs. It is also a great feed for laying hens. I would not think of raising poultry without it."

JAS. E. McGIE,
Easton, Kansas

Don't overlook the important part of chick feeding—to keep them healthy, make bone and muscle, and bring them to maturity at the earliest possible moment. Lee's Egg Maker and Chick Grower contains those elements in proper proportion that insure this result.

Lee's Egg Maker

and Chick Grower can be profitably fed every month in the year, to the exclusion of all other forms of meat food, at less feeding cost and with better results from every standpoint. We offer it on that guarantee.

Of equal value as a food for little chicks, for all penned-up poultry, and for the laying stock.

Fifty feeds for one cent proves its low feeding cost; our Guaranty proves its great value.

FEED DARLING'S WAY

We'll tell you the secret out loud. Your chicks are starving. They are eating but they are not digesting. They do not grow, and they do not gather strength because they cannot get any good from the food you are supplying them.

Darling's Chick Feed

starts chicks right and keeps them going. It's a food they can digest. They get strength and nourishment from it. We use the seeds and grains that are known to be suited to little chicks' requirements. We use them in right proportions and we make them the right size. Chicks do get the benefit of Darling's Chick Feed. They get health and vigor and good feeling from it and they grow. Ask anybody who ever used Darling's Chick Feed. Rural Telephones

Good roads, rural free delivery and the rural telephones as benefits to the farmer, can hardly in equity be compared as they are not in competition with each other. Good roads have always been a great benefit. Rural free delivery from its start in 1897 has been a great help to the farmers and in eleven years according to the report of the auditor for the post office, has grown to a total of 40,000 carriers. But the rural telephone, starting since that time is already outstripping both of these in the number of farmers it is reaching and the ways in which it is benefitting them. The rural free delivery carrier's route rarely exceeds 24 miles in length, and serves on an average about 70 farms. A rural telephone will operate as far as 40 miles with as many as 30 or 40 telephones on the line. Of course in the well settled states the farmers have both, but in the vast sections of open country, it is obvious that it will be some time before rural free delivery can reach as many farms as the rural telephone. The low first cost of the rural telephone puts it within the reach of all. On lines less than 12 miles long the cost is $4.94 per mile, not including poles, the latter to be cut and furnished by the farmer himself. On lines over 12 miles long the cost is but $6.87 per mile; same arrangement about the poles. In either case, the cost of his telephone set complete is $13.00. The above figures represent standard "ground" one wire construction and long distance telephones. It is a simple matter to build the line and no operator is required. The annual maintenance expense is not over $.75—the renewal of the dry batteries in the farmer's telephone. In addition the farmer can run the line to a neighboring town and there connect with the town exchange and long distance service to the rest of the country. The rural telephone in sickness or emergency enables the farmer to summon immediate aid. It enables him to learn the latest market prices and so get more money for his products. It removes the isolation of country life; it improves the conditions surrounding the farmer's wife. During the day and evening it is used a great deal for social intercourse—everybody being able to "get in" on the line at the same time if they desire. In many sections of the United States where rural telephone lines exist, it is customary to furnish weather bureau reports over them each morning. For instance at 9 o'clock in the morning the telephone company in town will give three long rings over each rural line entering its exchange and those who desire may, on taking the receiver off the hook, hear the operator read the weather bureau report. The companies often also give out at the same time, the prevailing market quotations. The rural telephone certainly is the farmer's greatest servant. In using it to do errands, it saves him time. In dry seasons, he may be promptly notified of the approach of prairie or forest fires, of not infrequent occurrence if his farm adjoins a railroad, or in case of fire in his own home he can summon aid without leaving the farm himself. It is hard to say in what way it helps him the most on the various things mentioned above. Whichever he is, ask him if he would be willing to do without it and his answer is "No!" In the vast sections of open country away from schools, churches and other conditions improving country life, the rural telephone is fast reaching out and removing one of the greatest disadvantages of living in the country; namely, that one must travel a considerable distance to reach a market or talk with a neighbor. It is estimated that there are about seven million farmer's families in the United States today, taking the word farmer in its broadest sense and including all families living in the open country. Of those it is estimated that in the few years since the rural telephone has been considered seriously, more than two million have adopted it and it is rapidly being extended. The rural telephone, born of necessity, and of vital benefits to the farmer has as its further recommendation, its accessibility to the entire population of farmers, many of whom cannot be reached by rural free delivery or good roads for generations to come.

Rural Telephones

"South's Only Poultry Supply Makers"

Memphis Breeders Enthusiastic

Interest in highbred poultry is again aroused in Memphis. The Tri-State Poultry Association was organized with 27 charter members, and the following officers elected: C. E. Coe, president; D. A. Fisher, vice-president, and R. C. Stockton, secretary. The Executive Board will consist of H. C. Hoskins, B. W. Parker and E. A. Hamm.

According to the officers of the new organization, says the Appeal, the idea was suggested at the Tri-State Fair poultry exhibition, which is considered to have been the finest ever seen in the South. Here the fact was brought home to them that Memphis was far behind the other cities in Tennessee, Arkansas, and Mississippi as far as a poultry raisers' organization was concerned.

C. E. Coe and R. C. Stockton were the first promoters of the Tri-State Poultry Association. The exhibition at the fair had aroused a great deal of enthusiasm among the poultry owners of this section and it took only a short while for them to get others interested in the movement. Since that time they have been devoting their spare moments to the work of organizing an association for the promulgation of fancy poultry raising.

R. C. Stockton, secretary of the Tri-State Poultry Association, is very enthusiastic over the work already accomplished. "We have everything in our favor," he said yesterday afternoon. "The association will be open to members from Arkansas, Mississippi and Tennessee. I think we will have between 150 and 200 members in a very short while. It is too late this year to have a poultry show. We will satisfy ourselves with improving our stock and getting it ready for next season, when in all probability we will have two exhibitions, one at the Tri-State Fair and the other during the winter, which, of course, will be an indoor one at some uptown place. Memphis is a good location for an organization of this kind, and every one of us are confident that the greatest success will attend our efforts.

"Inducements will be made the larger poultry breeders of the country and the exhibitions will be the finest that money and science can obtain."

HOW TO TEST ANY ROOFING

Don't pay out good money for roofing until you first test the roofing you're going to buy. This applies to Vulcanite as well as to all other roofings. We want you to test it against heat, fire, cold, acid, water and anything else you like. Bend it—twist it—try to tear it. Compare it with any other. You will know absolutely then, there is none as good as Vulcanite.

CYPHERS POULTRY FOODS

Quality Protected By Sealed Bags

If you buy a bag of Cyphers Poultry Foods, look for the unbroken seal and be sure you get it. If you buy in smaller quantities, ask to see the seal on the bag from which the food is taken. Thereby you are protected and sure to get "Cyphers." We guarantee our Poultry Foods to be the best value on the market—scientifically balanced for best results and we want you to get it just as it leaves our Kansas City Mill. That's why it all goes out in sealed bags. When you have satisfied yourself that you have the real goods, compare it with any other food on the market, at any price, and see the difference. Cyphers Foods contain the best grain—always. It's always the same. It is pure food. Cyphers Foods contain

No Weed Seeds to Breed Weeds—No Grit to Add Weight

The Largest Poultry Food Mill in the World is our Kansas City Mill where we manufacture nothing but poultry foods, including alfalfa products—no breakfast foods nor ordinary stock foods; therefore our customers receive absolutely sound, cleanly cut, dust-free grains; not by-products, waste material or sweepings that remain after putting the better parts of the grains into other foods. Every sack contains a 16-page booklet, "Foods and Feeding," telling now to feed.

Cyphers Chick Food { Health-Giving Quick Growth }

Produces Flesh, Feathers, Bone and Muscle. It aids in preventing Indigestion and Diarrhoea by reason of its well-balanced variety. A pound lost in a young chick's growth can never be regained—once lost always absent—and your chance for winners or early layers has gone.

The Best Foods Produce the Best Fowls—for Show, for Market and for Laying. Therefore it is wise to buy the best. The following is our list of balanced Poultry Foods—all superior and as low priced as we can make them.

Alabama Poultrymen to the Front

There was organized in Huntsville, Ala., Saturday, Feb. 6th, an organization to be known as the Tennessee Valley Poultry Association. Its object is to create a general public interest in thoroughbred poultry and pct stock; to encourage the adoption of type and color standards in accordance with the American Standard of Perfection, authorized by the American Poultry Association, and to advertise the advantages and opportunities of the Southern breeders. The following officers were elected: President, Dr. J. D. Humphrey, Huntsville; Vice President, Geo. Darwin, Green Grove, Ala. Secretary and Treasurer, S. E. Wasson, Huntsville. These officials with the following gentlemen constitute an executive committee for the management of the affairs of the organization, Ben. P. Hunt, Huntsville, Ben Matthews, Huntsville, W. T. Roberts, Gurley, Ala., E. E. King, Leighton, Ala., F. G. Hertzler, Madison, Ala., and H. B. Lansden, Manchester, Tenn. The Association begins its work with a large number of the most prominent poultrymen of this section as members. There is every prospect for a very large and enthusiastic membership. Plans are to be perfected for a great poultry show under the auspices of the Association to be held some time next fall, or winter, beginning this early the fanciers will have ample time to select their best birds and pen them separate from the utility stock, and take a trial at breeding some prize winning birds.

Trying to Do Too Much

In their desire to have the greatest show of them all, some of our poultry associations have overreached themselves and come to grief, financially, this season.

We have received complaints of money and prizes never delivered to those who won them. Overbooming has always spelt disaster, while the sad part of it is, that, once an association fails, the city where it existed is usually dead for a number of years, as a show town. The breeding of poultry has reached such proportions that there is material and patronage for good shows all over the country, while distances are so great that it is impossible to have one greatest show. With care in offering liberal prizes on a conservative financial basis a successful show can be run for years. The finances of an association must be sound or the show will go to smash. For next year do not try to have the most prizes, the largest prizes, but the best prizes you can pay for. Most of the exhibitors are not after the money, but the glory of winning and the pleasure of a good contest. In this line the percentage plan, with such cash specials and cups as are contributed and the association can afford has proved the most successful and the longest lived.

Don't let the great American desire for the biggest, carry us off our feet.

LANSDEN'S S. C. REDS —DO IT AGAIN—

Because of some "KNOCK" or criticism on the judging of the REDS at the big BIGGEST breeders not only in the SOUTH strongest class ever entered, including the BIGGEST Breeders not only in the SOUTH but also many BIG EASTERN breeders, 1st, 2nd, and 3rd pullet "or a clean sweep;" 2nd cock, 2nd hen, and cockerel, FIRST PEN; and not only first pen of REDS but the championship $50.00 cup for best pen in the show, all varieties competing, cup for 10 best pullets, special for largest and best exhibit.

We were called on by many friends to confirm the correctness of the awards at the big Nashville winter show, under different management and judge. Here we entered only one cockerel, winning first. Three hens, winning 1st, 2nd and 3rd; two cocks, winning 1st, and 4th; 2 pullets, winning 2nd. Also FIRST PEN and the challenge cup for best pen in AMERICAN class. "AND STILL THEY KNOCK." We CAN'T HELP IT BECAUSE THEY WIN. Our LITTLE RED BOOK tells the RED HEN TALE. Get it before you spend your money.

Poultry Raising Made Profitable

One of the first interests of the man or woman who takes up poultry raising, after securing the right kind of breeding stock, is to become thoroughly posted on everything connected with the business; to learn just how fowls should be sheltered, fed and cared for; all about their peculiarities, habits and diseases; in short, how they may be made to yield the greatest profit from the investment. Books have been published by the thousand. Prominent among these is "Greider's Book on Poultry." This is without doubt an exceptionally worthy book, and with its practical information on buildings, feeding, and other important subjects, will prove invaluable to everyone who keeps poultry. It will be forwarded to any address upon receipt of ten cents, in coin or stamps, by the publisher, B. H. Greider, Rheems, Pa.

The American P. R. Club.

I find the impression has gone abroad that this club is doing little to further the interests of Barred Plymouth Rocks. Let me state what has been done the past season. It has offered ribbons at nearly one hundred shows and many of them have been delivered. The remainder will be delivered just as soon as the official reports are made to the secretary. It has, also, offered cups in every state where there are ten members paid up in full. These will be delivered in good time. The members who attended the meeting at Boston were earnest and business-like in conducting the proceedings. Active, earnest, workers were elected to fill each and every office. The list of officers for 1909 follows: Pres., C. H. Welles, Stratford, Conn.; Vice Presidents, M. W. Baldwin, Dr. O. P. Bennett, B. S. Davis, W. F. Fetterall, M. S. Gardner, C. H. Latham and J. F. Anderson, Seattle, Wash., Supt. of Poultry at the Alaska-Yukon Exposition; Secy-Treas. A. C. Smith. It was voted to drop all members two years in arrears after thirty days' notice. The treasurer's report showed that the club had money enough to pay all its bills and a small balance. It was voted that, hereafter, a show must have at least three members competing to be allowed the club ribbons, and each state must have at least twenty members to be eligible to one of the club's cups. Voted to donate a $25 silver loving cup to the Alaska-Yukon Exposition, to be awarded for the best cock, hen, cockerel and pullet shown by a member of the club in good standing. All breeders of Barred Plymouth Rocks are invited to join the club. Membership fee and dues, $1.00 a year. A. C. Smith, Secy-Treas.

Valley View Farm's Poultry Yards

The erection of the Valley View Farm's Poultry Yards is one of Knox county's great industries, being situated six miles north of Knoxville, on the K. and O. railroad at Dante station, on the magnificent farm known as the Valley View Farms of Geo. W. Callahan, where there are eighteen different varieties of thoroughbred poultry raised in its purity, besides geese, ducks, pheasants, deers, black, fox and gray squirrels and numerous other pet stock under the management of H. C. Austin, one of East Tennessee's oldest and best known breeders, whose delight it is to please and satisfy his customers and follow the Golden Rule. His former location for twenty-five years has been at Johnson City, Tenn., from where he has shipped stock all over the South as far as Central America, where his stock has given perfect satisfaction and now being better prepared than ever to cater to the wants of his many old customers and as many new ones as will trust their orders with him he assures them that they will be satisfied with their stock. We now have over six hundred birds in our breeding yards as a sample of which they won seventy-three prizes and specials at the Knoxville show, Dec. 9-12, from birds picked up in our yards the day before we started to the show, with the only preparation being cleaning them for the coops as our time is taken up so closely in preparing our houses and yards for the season of 1909, as at the close of which we hope to have on the Valley View Farm's Poultry Yards the largest number of fine birds that was ever in Knox county, and the patrons of these yards will receive the worth of their money. As East Tennessee is one of nature's model poultry sections, being located in the mountains as we are with a bountiful supply of pure fresh air and fresh water for the encouragement of health and vigor thus success of fine birds is insured. If East Tennessee had hundreds of plants as this, it would add more to her wealth and twice the amount of capital invested in any other enterprise. Please see our ad. in this journal.

A NEW DISCOVERY!

WHICH WILL POSITIVELY DETERMINE THE FERTILE EGG BEFORE INCUBATION

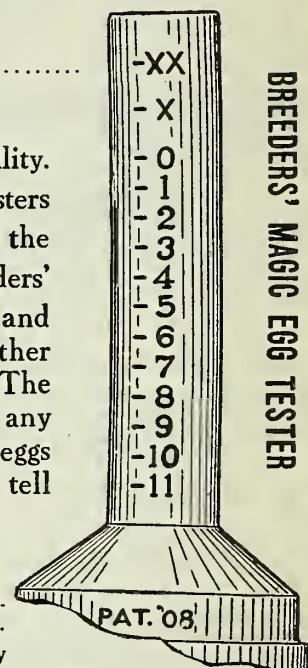

"XX" means fertility. Every good egg registers at some point on the scale of "The Breeders' Magic Egg Tester," according to its condition, and this wonderful little instrument tells instantly whether an egg is fertile or not BEFORE incubation. The scale reads like a thermometer and so easy that any 10-year old child can test eggs. The fertile eggs register at "XX" and the tester never fails to tell whether fertility is strong, weak or absent.

A well-known poultryman of Western New York says:

Niagara Falls, N. Y., Jan. 19, 1909.
"Used your Breeders' Magic Egg Tester since Aug. 1908. 100% correct in all kinds of tests. Simply perfect. Invaluable." F. C. Seiler.
Breeders' Magic Egg Tester sent complete, ready to use, by mail post-paid $2.00. Write for circular. Demonstrated in the Poultry Department at Buffalo Agricultural Fair with over 500 sales in the county. Order filled on day received. Money refunded in every case if not satisfied.

Lambert, Vice President of the Company and instructor in Poultry Craft at the Rhode Island College of Agriculture and Mechanic Arts. The booklet is a little encyclopedia of progress and up-to-date knowledge, with suggestions and plans for each month in the poultry year, and we understand will be mailed to anyone for 2c stamp.

The Fence that Lasts

There isn't anything that the farmer buys in which a mistake is more hopeless than in wire fence. If he gets "stuck" he is stuck for good, because there is no possible way of remedying the defect; it is a case of buying a new fence. The Brown Fence & Wire Company, of Cleveland, Ohio, is sending out some interesting literature on wire fence, showing why so much of the fence put up in recent years has rusted out and gone to pieces in so short a time. They point out very clearly that a fence like a chain is only as strong as its weakest part. It must be good all over to be good at all. A strong, heavy stay or up-right is as much important as a heavy lateral. They more-over show that in recent years much of the galvanizing that has been done is hardly worth the name of galvanizing at all. The wire is merely dipped into melted zinc instead of being put through a true galvanizing process. We know everyone of our readers will be interested in what Mr. Brown has to say on this fence question. Send to him for his little book. It will open your eyes.

Incubator Without Thermometer

In the same way that reverses may be said to develop character, so accidents surely test the merits of incubators. The experience of A. J. Paynter, breeder of pure bred B. P. Rocks and R. C. Rhode Island Reds, Alton, Kans., is a case in point. He owned a 160-egg Queen Incubator and in seven hatches secured 875 chicks. Just after starting one hatch, the thermometer was accidentally broken.

"At first, I did not know what to do," said Mr. Paynter, "but I decided that the hatch would be spoiled if I stopped, so decided to go ahead, and we did. We brought off the entire hatch without a thermometer, hatching 135 chicks out of 136 fertile eggs. I think that this is remarkable."

Such hatches could not be obtained unless the regulator and indeed the entire construction of the incubator was not virtually perfect. The manufacturers of the Queen say that other users have also reported successful hatches without thermometers.

A Handsome Catalogue

One of the handsomest incubator catalogues received this season is that of the Model Inc. Co., Buffalo, N. Y. See their advertisement in this issue and ask for a copy of the catalogue.

Pana, Ill., Show

The Pana Poultry Association will hold its 3rd annual show at Pana, Ill., Dec. 14-18, 1909. Judge, Ben S. Meyers. At the recent meeting of the Association, the following officers were elected: Pres., J. Edgar Turner, Pana; Vice-pres., M. J. Cavanaugh, Pana; Sec., J. A. Bickerdike, Millersville; Treas., J. J. Pierpoint, Pana; Supt., E. F. Karls, Tower Hill. Pana and vicinity is rapidly becoming a poultry center. A very successful show was held last January, with double the business and interest of the first show held a year ago. The officers are all real fanciers and men of judgment and ability. A great show for next season is already assured. Put Pana on your show list and remember the date, Dec. 14-18, 1909. J. A. Bickerdike, Sec., Millersville, Ill.

Fuller's Barred Plymouth Rocks

A. F. Fuller, breeder Barred Plymouth Rocks, Mattoon, Ill., writes: "the cockerel exhibited by me at the Indianapolis, Ind., show, Feb. 1 to 5, was of my own breeding, and received the comments of the leading breeders and judges as being the most even surface colored bird they ever saw. The fact that he was undeveloped was all that kept him from winning a place. He heads one of my best pens, mated to his dam and five of her full sisters. This with three other pens constitute my breeding yards. No utility flock. Eggs from the same matings my winners are hatched from, are shipped to my customers. Either cockerel or pullet matings $2.00 per 15."

American Orpington Club

The annual meeting of the American Orpington club was held December 30, 1908, Madison Square Garden, N. Y. In the absence of Pres. Frank W. Gaylor, Mr. Geo. W. Weed acted as president; Sec. Dr. Paul Kyle recorded. The report from the secretary and treasurer was read and approved. Credit $169.99, debit $163.43, balance on hand $6.56. The new emblem for the American Orpington Club, which Mr. Frank L. Sewell presented, was accepted with many thanks. A communication from Mr. Lance of Troy, O., was read in which he urged the admission of the Rose Comb Buff Orpingtons to the Standard. As no one seemed to be in favor of Mr. Lance's application it was laid on the table. Apropos, Dr. Paul Kyle repeated the remark made by an extensive breeder of the Orpingtons who hopes, no Rose Comb Orpington of any kind will ever be admitted to the Standard because they cannot be bred so large as their Single Comb cousins. The members present were all in favor of this prevailing sentiment. Information was asked for the perfect shape of the S. C. Black Orpington, male and female, which was followed by a general discussion. Mr. Wallace P. Willett of East Orange explained his ideal of a perfect Orpington shape. He urged members to keep in mind the principal points of Orpingtons, namely low on feet, a full and well developed breast with a long keel and a long back. Mr. Willett emphasized that there cannot be a particular shape for the Black, and another shape for the White, and a third shape for the Buff Orpingtons. All Orpingtons must be alike in shape. Mr. Dalby made a motion to have a cut made of a perfect S. C. Black Orpington female of which copies should be sent to all shows in the United States to assist the judges. The chair appointed a committee of four to nominate officers for the ensuing year, who reported as follows: President R. N. Barnum, Vice-President Archibald B. Dalby, Secretary and Treasurer Dr. Paul Kyle; Executive Committee, W. P. Doll and E. Kellerstrass, who were all elected. The present club judges, Messrs. Frank W. Gaylor, Cook and Delano were elected for the coming year. Mr. A. G. Goodacre's name was added to the list of Club judges. The secretary was instructed to notify Mr. H. V. Crawford of Dr. Kyle's election as judge for the Buff Orpingtons only and to appoint him to judge the Buff Orpingtons at the next Madison Square Garden show.

other layer of strong felt. That makes two roofs in one.

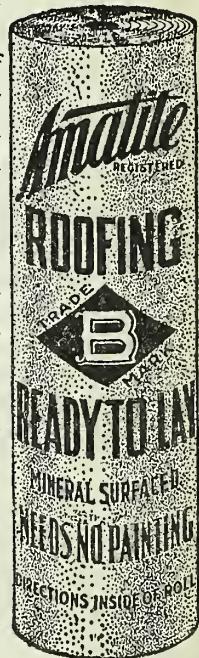

If the storms wore away the mineral surface and dug through the pitch and destroyed the felt, they would still be only half way through. And if the weather then removed the next sheet of pitch, you would still have left a final layer of felt—nothing more or less than an ordinary smooth surfaced roofing which could keep off the rain very nicely if painted every year or two.

But as a matter of fact, the weather never gets past that mineral surface securely gripped in its matrix of pitch.

This mineral surface needs no painting. The waterproofing material, Coal Tar Pitch, is the greatest enemy to water known. It is the base of many waterproof paints. Only in a paint the pitch is diluted and made into a thin film, whereas the Amatite waterproofing is solid pure Pitch—two layers of it. It would take something like a dozen coats of pitch paint to equal in thickness that upper sheet of pitch in which the Amatite mineral surface is buried. And under that heavy sheet of pitch is a layer of wool felt and under that another sheet of pitch, just as thick as the outer one. And below them all is an-

We should be glad to send you a free sample of Amatite, and you can see for yourself how much better it is than the smooth surfaced kinds.

The biggest show ever held in the state is expected next year.

Can Frogs Smell?

The sense of smell of frogs is not supposed to be highly developed. The pores of the skin, however, are extremely sensitive to foreign fluids, as their skin is very absorbent. While frogs do not show much reaction from strong odors, they are much irritated if a foreign substance touches the skin, and the perfume mentioned, if coming in contact with the animal, would undoubtedly cause it to "step lively." —February St. Nicholas.

CLOSE TO NATURE BROODERS

A BROODER BUILT ON THE MOST EXACT SCIENTIFIC PRINCIPLES

Warmth by Conduction and Contact; Ventilation by Induction and Percolation; Prevention of Piling and Crowding by Mechanical Construction.

Has met with a most remarkable reception the past two years, being used and endorsed by many scientific and successful poultrymen such as Judge Russell, Dr. Michell, Dr. Kilbourne, Pease, Emery, Hague, etc. * * * Avoids both extremes, being neither a lampless cold storage box nor a hot air baking oven; but is a scientifically, expensively constructed common-sense, close-to-nature chick nurse, blending the instincts of the broody hen with the reason of man and satisfying every natural impulse of the chick.

Brooders are double, convertible to single; metal fireproof lamp box outside; hovers adjustable to the growth of the chicks; double floors, triple tops, triple hover floors; withstand any weather with little fuel, and for service in orchard and field. * * * As nearly fireproof as any brooder now made and will be insured by any company that will insure any brooder. * * * The Close-to-Nature is rapidly taking the place of the brooders relegated to the scrap pile, and is helping to make the great poultry industry prosperous. Free Brooder Book for the asking.

FOREMOST AMERICAN FANCERS AND LARGE PRACTICAL PLANTS

In Which It Is Told That The Bigger The Hatches Are, The Bigger The Profits Will Be.

Anybody interested in the men who are foremost in breeding fancy poultry and winning with them, and anybody who wishes to be introduced to those equally prominent poultry raisers—the proprietors of Large Practical Poultry and Duck Plants, cannot do better than secure Cyphers Incubator Company's Big Illustrated Catalogue for 1909. Two hundred and twelve pages; over five hundred worldwide photographic illustrations of prominent poultrymen, poultry plants, and poultry equipment, with instructive chapters intermixed, make up a book exemplifying the importance of the poultry industry, which, we are proud to say, is unequalled in this or any other country. Poultrymen and women who have been in the business year after year—the old standbys, anticipate its annual coming. For twelve years it has been welcomed as a veritable encyclopedia of the poultry business, and as one glances through it anew, expecting to be entertained, it once more creates surprise at its completeness and the ever widening circle of the Company's operations.

What else is in it? Well! To begin in the middle there are some instructions headed "Get Bigger Hatches," followed by a truism—"The Bigger the Hatches, the Bigger the Profits." A few pages slip through our fingers and we see a string of medals and silver cups and a little talk about "Winners Throughout America." It is accompanied by pictures of a number of the winners, and includes reference to the New York, Boston, Chicago and other big shows. Did you ever see Duston, Fishel, Russell, the veteran "Billy" McNeil, E. B. Thompson, Hawkins—yes, and there are photographs of others as well known, all looking happy, successful and—yes, masterful. Did you ever see the usands and thousands of ducks in a flock? They're in it. Not only one flock, nor two, but dozens; fowls too—not such big flocks, but just as numerous.

It would take too much space here to tell of Cyphers Company's Kansas City Food Mill, their Electric Hatchers and Mammoth 40,000 Egg Incubators. Get the book and see for yourself. See also the long list of Poultry Supplies the Company manufactures; their "Warrant of Superiority" occupying a page, and their straight "Guaranty" another. It will impress upon you the immensity of the Poultry Industry, the solidity of Cyphers Incubator Company with its 500 or more employees; its five acres of factory floor space; its seven branches and warehouses, and lastly but by no means least, the fact that for over twelve years their Incubators and Brooders have been the acknowledged leaders everywhere. Why not write now for this Big Free Book. You can get it if you mention the name of this paper and address CYPHERS INCUBATOR COMPANY, Buffalo, N. Y.; Boston, Mass.; New York City; Chicago, Ill.; Kansas City, Mo. or Oakland, Cal.

A New Gape Cure

G. B. Williams, East Bernstadt, Ky., writes concerning gapes as follows: "Take a chicken as soon as it dies and split down the nose or breathing tube into the windpipe. You can easily see that it is a louse that crawls into the little chick's nose and deposits eggs that are hatched by the warm breath of the chick, into little red worms that crawl into their windpipe in such numbers as to choke the chicken to death. If you will keep your chickens clear of all lice you will never have gapes nor but little other sickness among fowls, no matter where you let them run. I have only Thompson's Ringlet Rocks and they are good enough for me and the best winter layers I ever saw. My hens have made records for eggs since Nov. 1, 1908, to Feb. 15, 1909 that cannot be beaten, and seldom equaled."

Broilers Always in Stock

Money-making possibilities in raising "broiler" chickens have never been greater than to-day. The demand throughout the country exceeds the supply. The market is always ready to pay the highest rates. Hence, the profit that comes to the chicken raiser who uses the economical incubator and hatches his stock so that they will be ready for market when prices are best.

From March until May rates are high and the poultrymen use the incubator exclusively for hatching for this season. It makes them independent of the hen and enables them to regulate their supply perfectly.

Most large breeders use the incubator almost exclusively, but many smaller chicken raisers still stick to the mother hen, principally because they believe that the cost of an incubator and its upkeep is beyond their means. How incorrect is this idea is shown by the low price of the Stahl Excelsior and Wooden Hen incubator and the low cost of maintenance. Stahl incubators are thoroughly practical, proven by years of service. They require but little attention and guaranteed to produce a chick for every fertile egg. Some valuable and interesting information on incubator hatching may be had free by addressing George H. Stahl, Quincy, Ill.

Lawson's White Leghorns of Cleveland, Tennessee

Better look up Lawson's ad. elsewhere in this issue, his White Leghorns have won the lion's share of the premiums at the big Knoxville shows for the past three years and he says the world can't beat his blue ribbon strain for eggs. So if you want to find a place in the show next winter get either stock or eggs from him while the price is low; yet the quality high. Mr. Lawson is giving his attention exclusively to the White Leghorns and his 40 acre farm is so situated he can afford to sell stock and eggs very cheap.

A POULTRY BOOK

THAT TELLS YOU

HOW TO

Select the layers without trap nests (the only infallible method). How to produce two-pound broilers in eight weeks—get 200 eggs per hen per year, and make pullets lay at 5 months old—secure 90 per cent hatches with hens or incubators (no dead chicks in shell)—make the Nevitt Fireless Brooder in one hour for 50¢ and raise all the chickens hatched—make feed for 10c per bushel for growing chicks and producing eggs. Our new copyrighted book, The Nevitt System of Poultry Culture, teaches this and covers all branches of profitable poultry work. Invaluable; nothing like it; Nevitt System being adopted everywhere; no failures. Circulars free. Send $1 today. Bred for beauty and business. We have not shown our birds the past season, because we have adopted the policy of not showing against our customers. Our stock has been well represented at several of the leading South-Western shows, and they made good in every instance. One of the strongest arguments in our favor is, that we can and do furnish our customers winning birds, and eggs that will produce prize winners. Eggs from our prize matings, $3.00 per 15, $5.00 per 30. Barred Rock and R. I. Red utility matings, $2.00 per 15, $10.00 per 100.

SALE THE CHICKS

By the use of Germozone I saved a bunch of 200 chicks that were accidentally shut out of their brooder last summer during a heavy rain. Also use it frequently with the old fowls and it keeps them in good health.
LLOYD B. MISHLER,
Breeder of Brahma and B. P. Rocks,
Centerville, Ia.

There is little satisfaction in hatching chicks if you cannot raise them. Chick losses have become so common that many people believe they cannot be avoided, and actually figure on a certain percent of loss from each hatch.

will cure Bowel Complaint—the most fatal disease of chicks—in less than 24 hours. But better still, its regular use twice a week will prevent this and most other diseases. One teaspoonful (or tablet) to a quart of water; 96 doses for 50 cents. Are your chicks worth it?

Germozone is a germicide, a bowel regulator, a system builder. It goes to the seat of the trouble and effects a sure and permanent cure.

Given in the drinking water twice a week it cures disease, prevents contagion, and keeps the fowls in a healthy, vigorous condition. Prepared either in tablet or liquid form and will be sent, postpaid, on receipt of price.

Germozone is the best health insurance you can have for your poultry. Cost is small, and it is sold on an absolute guarantee.

Price 50 cents.

Card of Thanks

First, I want to thank the editor of THE INDUSTRIOUS HEN for insisting on me to let the public know through THE HEN about my fine imported strain of S. C. Buff Orpingtons. After placing my ad in the January number I received two inquiries before THE HEN had made her way to my place and they have been coming in regular ever since, not only inquiries, but the orders are coming from all directions. So if any one who reads this have eggs or surplus stock for sale, just let THE HEN carry the news to those who are anxious to pay the cash for what you have to sell. Then I thank my many satisfied customers who have had the confidence to trust me with their money.—Mrs. Lula Lawson, R. No. 4, Box 2, Cleveland, Tenn.

The American Houdan Club.

At the annual meeting of the American Houdan club held at Boston, Jan. 15th, the following officers were elected: President, John T. Heizer, Columbus, O.; Vice President, Jas. Abernethy, West Pembroke, Me., Sec'y-Treas., D. P. Shove, Fall River, Mass.; ex-Committee, Edw. L. Smith, Springfield, Mass.; Chas. E. Arnold, Babylon, N. Y.; John Barber, Lawson, Mo. The club voted to get out a catalogue and the Secretary would like to get in line with every breeder of Houdans in the country, and if they will drop him a line or two they will hear of something to their interest, or better yet send in their name with a dollar and become a member.—D. P. Shove, Secretary.

This is Sam Thompson

Sam Thompson makes good incubators and brooders at Fairfield, Nebraska. Many of our readers know Sam Thompson well, because they own one of his good incubators and brooders. If you are not yet acquainted with him and his machines you're missing something. Everybody nearly for miles around Fairfield, knows Sam Thompson for two good reasons. First, because he makes as fine an Incubator as there is on the market. Second, because he treats everybody who deals with him fair and square always and people generally like to know that sort of man. We would like you to know Sam Thompson and all about his machines.

Write Mr. Thompson for his catalogue telling all about the Fairfield incubators and brooders. Address S. C. Thompson, Mgr., Nebraska Incubator Co., Fairfield, 277 Main Street, Nebraska.

Improvements in Amatite Roofing

Amatite Roofing, which has for several years been growing rapidly in popularity among our readers on account of its no-paint mineral surface, is now being made with several little improvements designated to make it easier to lay.

One of these is the smooth lap, left along the edge of the roll, about three inches wide, where the mineral surface is omitted. This smooth lap makes a closer and tighter joint possible.

The adhesive cement which is supplied with each roll now comes in liquid form and does not require heating before use.

Instead of supplying nails and caps, the nails themselves have extra large heads, thus saving considerable bother in putting down the roofing.

Readers who are unfamiliar with Amatite Roofing should send for a sample to nearest office of the Barrett Manufacturing Company, New York, Chicago, Cleveland, Boston, Pittsburg, Kansas City, St. Louis, Minneapolis, Philadelphia, New Orleans and Cincinnati.

Model Moisture Automatic Regulator

gives the exact amount of supplied moisture needed to a drop. It supplies moisture only when needed, supplies the correct amount, and keeps the moisture (humidity) in absolute control. Too much moisture, or too dry atmosphere means spoiled hatchets. The range of proper moisture is within narrow limits. The Model Regulator works automatically. Cannot get out of order or fail to work. Does away with spraying of eggs, or using damp cloths.

A chemically treated cord, which contracts or expands as it is moist or dry, and closes or opens a valve which controls the flow from a water vessel on top of the incubator. The correct humidity is shown by a specially constructed hygrometer, on which the humidity is read the same as on a thermometer scale. This Hygrometer is supplied with every Regulator. In general the working of this Moisture Regulator is upon the same principles as our famous Model Thermostat. This new device, and others, put the Model years ahead of all other incubators.

OTHER PATENTED FEATURES FOR THE MODEL INCUBATOR ARE :

Model patented Flame Extinguisher (new this year) a practical device which absolutely prevents continued smoking or any over-heating of the lamp. This Flame Extinguisher is a part of the regular equipment of our 1909 Model Incubators.

Model patented Automatic Lamp Filler can be attached to one or several incubators or brooders and will keep the oil fountain filled to uniform height. A great time and labor saver.

Send for Model Incubator booklet describing these and other Chas. A. Cyphers successful inventions, including a full line of Model Incubators and Brooders. You cannot afford not to know about these record making machines.

RHODE ISLAND REDS

ROSE COMB EXCLUSIVELY. THE WORLD'S BEST STRAIN.

1908: At Tennessee State Fair Show, birds from my flock won: First on cock, first on hen, first on pullet, first and special on pen, no cockerels entered, this on five entries. At Augusta, Ga., with only three birds entered, first cock, fourth hen (this hen scoring 94½ under Lansden, a Red judge), and fifth pullet, in hot competition. At Knoxville, in January, first cock on one entry. At Lebanon, thirteen ribbons on seventeen birds entered. Also big winning at Bristol and Johnson City, Tenn. These winnings were made in competition with the best breeders North and South.

This speaks as to their quality. Four grand pens mated for the egg trade and stock for sale at all times. Price of eggs, $2.00 per 15. Birds $2.50 to $10.00 each. Address

Chicago House Wrecking Co.

Positively the greatest bargain catalogue of its kind ever published. It illustrates and describes thousands of wonderful bargains in merchandise of every kind, including Furniture, Rugs, Stoves, Carpets, Linoleum, Machinery, Hardware, Steel, Cable, Rope, Building Material, Lumber, Roofing, Electrical Fixtures and Goods, Safes, Vaults, Vault Doors, Heating Apparatus, Tanks, Pipe, Fittings, Fencing, Plumbing Material, Lumber, etc.

The Chicago House Wrecking Company's plant occupies a site of over 40 acres in area and has 31 separate and distinct departments. This concern does not purchase goods by regular methods. It depends upon Sheriffs', Receivers' sales for the stocks they secure.

By taking advantage of business depressions, commercial disasters, Bankers' Sales, they are able to frequently secure the very finest, costliest and highest grade, brand new merchandise at less than actual cost of manufacture. They are universally recognized as the world's greatest bargain center. To fully appreciate the astonishingly low prices they quote on high grade merchandise, it is only necessary to compare their goods and prices with what regular retail concerns ask.

The saving you will be able to effect if you buy from them will be tremendous, considering what you would ordinarily pay for the same grade of merchandise elsewhere. This concern issues a special 250 page bargain catalogue of Furniture, Rugs, Carpets, Linoleum and Stoves. This special catalogue illustrates Floor Coverings in natural colors with reproductions so faithful and true to life that the articles appear almost real as far as color and pattern are considered. It is one of the finest, as well as costliest catalogues of its kind ever issued. We advise every reader of this paper to write the Chicago House Wrecking Company at once and get both of these catalogues. They will be mailed free on request. Ask for catalogue No. 843. Address Chicago House Wrecking Co., 35th & Iron Sts., Chicago.

See their advertisement on another page of this issue and read about the wonderful bargains they offer. This is the same concern that wrecked the Columbian World's Fair at Chicago in 1893 and the St. Louis World's Fair, 1905, as well as the Pan-American Exposition at Buffalo, in 1902.

If you contemplate erecting a Home, Barn, or Building of any kind, write for their special plan book, which is mailed free if requested when writing for the other catalogues described above. They quote prices on houses complete, including everything required to build and furnish the home complete, excluding only the land and labor.

There are but few breeders in this country who fully realize the worth of buying only the best blood possible to obtain. Mr. Walter G. Ayer, of Chrisney, Ind., R. 2, is an exception to this rule. Here is a breeder of Poland China hogs, M. B. Turkeys and Barred Plymouth Rocks who is never satisfied with his present stock, but is continually looking for something better, although at the present time he has as good as money will buy, he is not slow to place the best blood possible in his yards, regardless of cost. While he has the quality that many breeders would ask and sell for double the price, Mr. Ayer charges, yet Mr. Ayer's motto is "Live and let live." Quality first and all the time. He guarantees his stock in every instance to be just as recommended and we guarantee to our readers Mr. Ayer to be a man of exceptionally high morals, a reliable gentleman, a man that will give his customers the best end of the deal in every instance.—J. C. Clipp.

A Statement.

The Greater Nashville Pet Stock and Poultry Association wishes to announce that Mrs. S. C. Bridgewater, of Dixon Springs, Tenn., was awarded first premium on cockerel in S. C. Buff Orpington class at their show, Dec. 8-12, 1908, and any advertising or statements to the contrary are absolutely without consent of the judge or managers of this show.—Fount H. Rion, Secy.

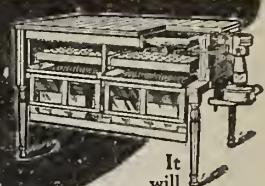

The party guilty of claiming and advertising winnings he never made at a show is a thief, and should be exposed. If the facts can be substantiated that a poultryman exhibiting at a poultry show has deliberately appropriated credit to himself that was intended for another THE INDUSTRIOUS HEN will publish such facts. Opportunity will be given, however, for an explanation.—L. B. A.

A Correction in Our Last Issue

We made the error in the February issue of THE HEN in saying that R. L. Laverty, Gadsden, Ala., had made winnings at the Gadsden show. The item should have read that he won 1, 2, 3 pullets on S. C. R. I. Reds at the Rome, Ga., show. This error was not made by Mr. Laverty, but in this office, hence the correction.

Mrs. Bridgewater's Orpingtons

Have made such a reputation and won so many prizes that unscrupulous parties are trying to steal that distinction by claiming to have won prizes that belonged to her. Elsewhere in this issue we publish an official notice from the Secretary of the Greater Nashville show. We can hardly believe that anyone would be guilty of such a contemptible act, and we trust that there may be some mistake about it. Mrs. Bridgewater's new catalogue is just out, and it is a beauty. Her remarks on line breeding are interesting and highly instructive from a scientific standpoint. The condensed "Origin and History of the Orpingtons" given should of itself place this catalogue in the hands of thousands of lovers of this beautiful bird. The booklet is handsomely illustrated and contains information never before found in a poultry catalogue. Mrs. Bridgewater is an intelligent, conscientious breeder and an order to her for stock or eggs will be faithfully cared for.

The Mandy Lee Poultry Farm

By Frank B. White.

A few minutes over a good road in Mr. Lee's big touring car brought us to the Mandy Lee Poultry Farm, which is operated by Mr. George H. Lee, president of the George H. Lee Co., Omaha.

This farm is conducted for fun and profit. All his life Mr. Lee has been an enthusiastic poultryman and there is no branch of the business from which he gets more enjoyment than the supervision of his chicken farm.

In addition to being a source of enjoyment, however, the farm is also a source of revenue.

"After removing my business to Omaha ten years ago," said Mr. Lee, "it was necessary for me to abandon temporarily the raising of poultry, but after the lapse of a few years I sort of got disgusted with an impression on the part of some people that Lee's chicken talk was theory and not practice, so I decided to start a poultry farm that would not only be a money-maker but also a show place for those going into the business.

"I have often expressed the opinion that a poultry farm of any size could be successfully and profitably operated if capital, facilities and attention were in proportion to the magnitude of the business. The person who starts in to handle five thousand chickens without really knowing how to properly care for a hundred is quite as certainly foredoomed to failure as is the one who tries to crowd a thousand chickens into quarters properly fitted for the accommodation of a couple of hundred. Crowding, inexperience and working beyond the capital at hand are the three great causes of failure in poultry work."

Mr. Lee has made a life study of poultry raising and is familiar with every detail of the industry and everything on the farm—every method in vogue there—shows clearly the practical, technical knowledge of the "master hand at the helm." Poultry raising on a large scale is something we often read about, but here is an opportunity to see it worked out successfully, and a visit to the farm is an education in every sense of the word.

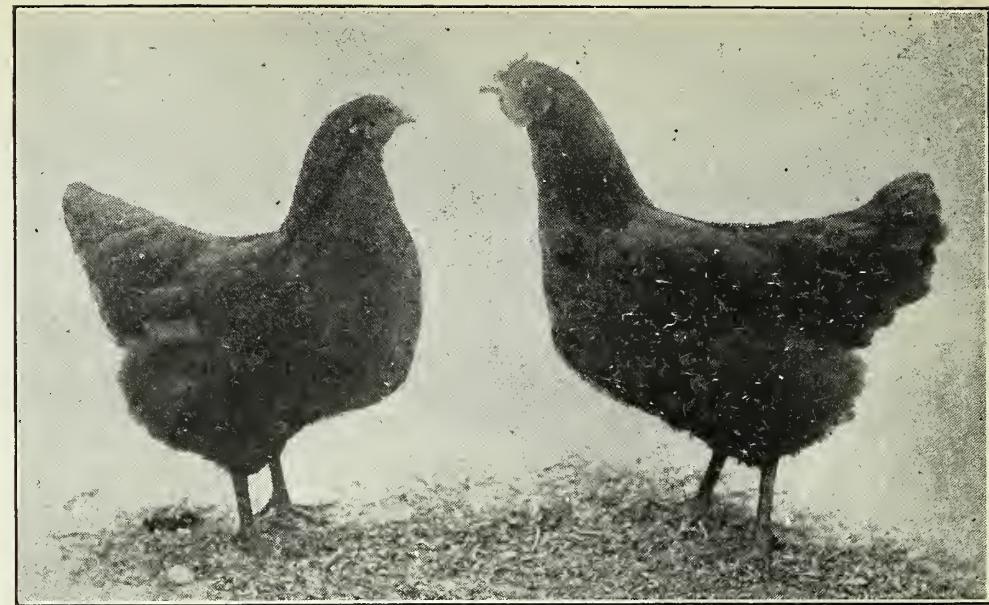

Here one has an opportunity to study poultry raising in every detail. Their laying houses have a capacity of 2,500 hens, and more in course of construction; a brooder house, an incubator cellar, and any number of outdoor fireless brooders, indicates great activity on the "farm" during the breeding season. All branches of the business are considered. Eggs and stock are sold in season at fancy figures; day-old chicks are shipped to all parts of the country; surplus and inferior stock are quickly fattened and sent to market, and there is a constant demand for all the eggs for table use the farm can produce. And Mr. Lee tells us this is the object of the enterprise—to demonstrate that with proper care and management the poultry business is a success, financially and otherwise.

Mr. Lee's poultry farm is located a few miles north of Omaha, convenient to city street car transportation. He breeds principally White Leghorns.

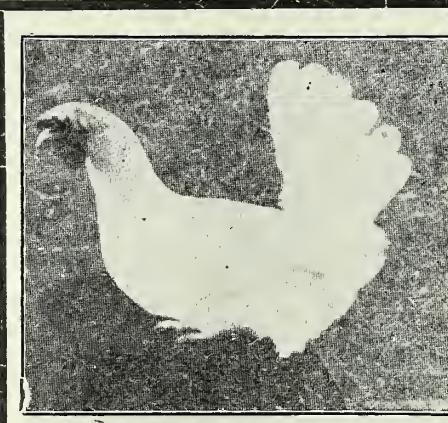

Second and third prize R. I. Red pullets, Cleveland, 1907 show. Bred and owned by Myron B. Seward, Euclid, Ohio.

HOW TO RAISE THE CHICKS

It is no trick at all to hatch a hundred, two hundred, or even a thousand chicks, but the raising of them is an entirely different proposition. The average person is fortunate if he succeeds in raising over one-half the chicks he hatches. True, there are those who raise nearly every chick hatched, but they have made a study of the matter and go about it in an intelligent manner. Commencing with the March number, COMMERCIAL POULTRY will publish a series of articles on the subject of "Caring for the Chicks," written by poultry men and women in every part of the country who have been successful in raising chicks to maturity with little or no loss, and who have consented to tell the thousands of COMMERCIAL POULTRY readers exactly HOW THEY DO IT. These articles will be continued through the April, May and June numbers of the paper, and each one of them will be from a different state, so that the entire country will be covered by the fifteen or twenty articles that will appear. This series of articles will be worth thousands of dollars to the poultrymen of the country.

The publishers of COMMERCIAL POULTRY claim to have the most practical and interesting poultry paper published. It is filled from cover to cover with practical, interesting information for the poultryman, is nicely illustrated and well printed, with two-color cover. The regular subscription price of the paper is 50 cents per year, but just now the publishers are offering free with each yearly subscription a copy of their famous book, "Poultry Lessons for the Amateur," one of the best books on the subject of poultry culture ever published, consisting of twelve complete chapters, and covering the subject thoroughly. Remember you get a copy of this book, postage prepaid, and a year's subscription to COMMERCIAL POULTRY for only 50 cents. The series of articles on "Care of the Chicks" will be worth many times 50 cents to you. Send us your subscription at once and get the complete series. Your money back if not satisfied. Address, COMMERCIAL POULTRY, Dept. I, MARSEILLES, ILL.

N. B.—We will send COMMERCIAL POULTRY and any other 50-cent poultry paper published, each one full year, and include a copy of our book, for only 75 cents.

Was a Hen

Little Harry with his sister and brothers was being taught natural history by the governess through the instrumentality of a game. The game was called "Barnyard." One child was a duck, another a turkey, and a third a calf, and so on—a noisy, delightful game. But little Harry remained, in all the tumult, as still as death. Far off in a corner he crouched, silent and alone. The governess, spying him, approached, saying, indignantly: "Come, Harry, and play with us." "Hush," answered Harry, "I'm laying an egg."—The Circle Magazine for March.

ABOUT THESE LABELS

ASK INSURANCE AGENTS

THE CASE REVIEWED:

Incubators and Brooders. The membership of the National Board of Fire Underwriters consists solely of fire insurance companies and includes the principal companies doing business in the United States and Canada. Copies of the National Board's "Rules and Requirements," in booklet form, can be obtained free on request from the Underwriters Laboratories, Inc., 382 Ohio Street, Chicago, Ill.

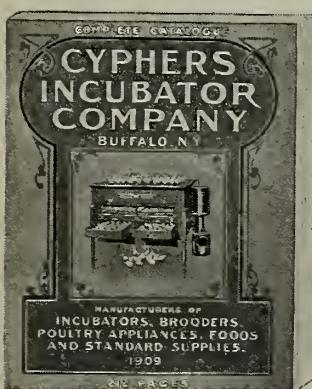

General view of Standard Cyphers Incubator, 1909 Pattern, Equipped with Fire-Proof Heater, Fire-Proof Lamp and Fire-Proof Lamp Enclosure.

"NO CHARGE" STATES: The National Board of Fire Underwriters does not fix rates of insurance. This is left to district, state and local rating organizations. Rapid progress is being made and down to the present date the rating organizations of the following States have decided to make no charge for "permits" granting the right to use Incubators and Brooders in or near insured property, PROVIDED, they are built in accordance with the National Board's Rules, bear the Official Inspection Labels of the Underwriters Laboratories, Inc., and are properly installed: —

Ohio	Illinois	Michigan	Missouri	California
Kansas	Tennessee	Arkansas	Kentucky	Oregon
Nebraska	Minnesota	Colorado	Mississippi	Washington
Oklahoma	N. Dakota	Texas	New Mexico	Montana
Wyoming	S. Dakota	W. Virginia	Arizona	Idaho
		Nevada	British Columbia

GET THE LABELS: Make no mistake about the value TO YOU of these insurance labels! They stand for something!! They mean greater safety and the lowest obtainable Fire Insurance rates to every user, to every policy holder. You need not accept our statement; put the question squarely to your local insurance agent. Ask him! He knows and will gladly tell you. Show him this advertisement!! Your doing so will be a favor to us and profitable to you.

REMODELING OUTFITS: Old customers of ours will be glad to learn that we have completed arrangements with the Underwriters Laboratories, Inc., whereby we can furnish brand new, fire-proofed heaters, together with Safety Lamp Enclosures, for remodeling any size Standard Cyphers Incubator built and sold since this company has been in business and that these Remodeling Outfits bear the Inspection Labels, thus entitling the owners of Remodeled Standard Cyphers Incubators to all the benefits of the insurance labels. For prices of Remodeling Outfits see page 36 of Main Catalogue, or write for special Remodeling Circular.

QUALITY AND SAFETY COMBINED

Best Hatchers. On account of the fact that they can always be relied upon for big hatches, and because the chicks are strong and live, Cyphers Incubators are chosen and used in preference to all others by persons who are in the business for a living and cannot afford to lose a hatch, as well as by the foremost experts in poultry raising. To make money, to save money, you need the Cyphers. It has been "Standard" for years. It has always been safe to use—now it is everywhere insurable.

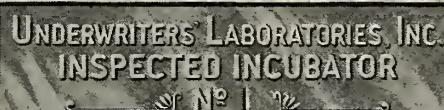

GREAT FREE BOOK: The Best Free Book on the poultry business is the Cyphers Company 212-page Annual Catalogue for 1909 (pages 7½ x 10½ inches) with illustrated chapters on Feeding Chickens, Laying Records, Incubating, Brooding, and "What the Poultry Business Is." It contains full information about the New Rules of the Fire Insurance Companies; photographs of superior, standard-bred farm fowls and prize winners at America's big shows; photographs of the highest-priced birds ever sold and letters from their owners; about seventy pictures of the world's biggest poultry and duck plants and experiment stations; over fifty photographs of leading breeders whom you have read about; illustrations of more than seventy different articles manufactured by Cyphers Company's more than five hundred employees on its five acres of floor space—the largest Incubator, Brooder and Poultry Supply Plant in existence. Tells all about our Electric Hatchers and Brooders, and the Mammoth Incubators, holding 8,000 to 40,000 eggs each. Write today for this Big Book. IT IS FREE. FREE SAMPLES!

Special Offer to Readers of THE INDUSTRIOUS HEN

Fill in carefully coupon below. Mail it to the Chicago House Wrecking Co., Chicago, at once. We will send you, free of all cost, samples of the very best roofing, ceiling and siding made. These samples are large and generous enough to give an idea of the quality of the large sheets from which they are taken. Or drop a postal saying, "Send free samples of Galvanized Iron Coverings as advertised in THE INDUSTRIOUS HEN." Sign your name and address, carefully, in full. These samples are absolutely free. Send no money or postage. Our galvanized rust proof iron (see No. 1) is made of the very best grade of specially manufactured iron sheets. The galvanizing process protects these sheets from rust for all time. This thorough coat of non-corrosive metals—tin, lead and zinc—called spelter, is made a part of each sheet through the special dipping process employed. This gives the heaviest possible coat of galvanizing necessary for any covering purpose. Galvanized iron roofing has been used for over 60 years. It has always been and is today the best material for covering buildings made. Keeps buildings warmer in winter and cooler in summer. Positively does not taint your rain water—is never injured by contraction or expansion.

ROOFING! SIDING! AND CEILING!

The Best and Most Lasting Covering Made!

Proven by 60 years actual experience — from every standpoint the most economical covering you can use.

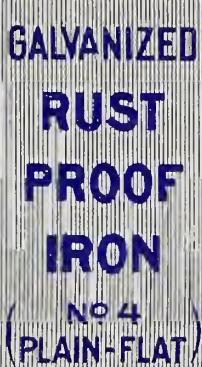

SUPERIOR TO SHINGLES!

Many fires originate on shingle roofs. The natural life of a shingle is less than ten years, besides requiring constant attention. The quality of shingles grows poorer each year.

Excels Ready Roofings in Every Way!

Compared to ready roofing, whether rubber surface or felt, cost considered, metal roofing will outlast it 8 to 1. Patent, prepared or composition roofings crack and curl with age. Tar roofings rot and spoil. Most ready roofings soften in the warm air and sun. They stick to your feet when walked upon.

Better than Slate. Slate weighs seven times as much and will break from freezing and thawing.

Lightning Proof!
Fire Proof!
Water Proof!

Suitable for Farm Houses, Barns, Stores, City Dwellings, Poultry Houses, etc.

Galvanizing is the life of a metal roof. Our light weight sheets with their heavy galvanizing give better service, besides saving considerable in freight. Do not require painting. Have a mottled, sparkling effect, pleasing to the eye.

Anyone can lay our galvanized rust proof coverings. Ordinary hatchet or hammer are the only tools needed. No experience required.

Illustration No. 1 is Corrugated (galvanized rust proof iron), an all around covering. It is the best. Suitable for ceiling, siding or roofing. Corrugation $\frac{1}{2}$ inches apart—inch closer than others. Makes a firmer and better looking sheet.

Illustration No. 2 shows the "V" Crimped Roofing (galvanized rust proof iron) suitable for roofing only—makes a splendid watertight roof—requires "V" sticks to put on.

Illustration No. 3 shows Standing Seam Roofing (galvanized rust proof iron), requiring set of tools furnished at low price. Makes first-class covering for any kind of a building.

Illustration No. 4 shows Plain Flat Sheets (galvanized rust proof iron), suitable for many special purposes, such as lining, ceiling, roofing sheds and buildings and innumerable purposes independent of roofing, siding or ceiling. It can be soldered.

Illustration No. 5—Beaded Ceiling or Siding (galvanized rust proof iron) makes a handsome ceiling or siding. Easy to apply—suitable for stores, etc.

Illustration No. 6—Brick Siding (galvanized rust proof iron), an exact imitation of regular brick—most suitable exterior for buildings of any kind. Easy to apply, requiring only nails and hammer.

$1.60 to $3.25 PER SQUARE!

Our Galvanized Rust Proof Iron Coverings

These six galvanized rust proof iron coverings come in sheets all 6 feet long. Can supply sheets 2, 3 and 4 feet long. Flat sheets are 26 inches wide. All others 24 inches wide, sold by the square of 100 square feet, not including lap. Prices as follows:

Flat, per square $3.00

Corrugated and all other designs, per sq. 3.25

When ordering mention lot No. 18

Our Semi-Hardened Steel Roofing (Not galvanized)

In addition to this galvanized iron, we have a plain light-weight steel roofing of superior quality. It is good for general purposes and can be painted after it is on the roof. Sheets when flat are 24 in. wide and either 6 or 8 ft. long. All other patterns, except the brick siding, are 22 in. wide and either 6 or 8 ft. long. Furnished either painted or unpainted. Prices as follows:

Flat, per square $1.60

Corrugated and all other designs, per square, 1.85

When ordering mention lot No. 10.

U.S. SODA, STRAWBERRY, MINT,

WHAT WILBUR'S POULTRY TONIC IS

Wilbur's Poultry Tonic has been recognized for nearly a quarter of a century as the one food which makes hens lay. In the poultry business it is of vital importance that the production of eggs be stimulated to the highest degree. The natural function of a hen is to lay eggs and if she does not lay regularly there is some good reason for it. Gentlemen:—Please send me the $1.00 Package of Wilbur's Poultry Tonic absolutely free.

GUARANTEED TO CURE ALL DISEASES

Cholera, Diarrhoea, Aplexy, Pip, Roup, Gapes, Indisposition and other diseases need not be feared if Wilbur's Poultry Tonic is fed. This tonic together with pure water, exercise and cleanliness will prevent all ailments that fowls are subject to. Don't forget that not only is Wilbur's Poultry Tonic sure to prevent disease of all kinds, but it is positively guaranteed to cure disease even after your poultry have already become infected.

Wilbur Stock Food Co., Milwaukee, Wis.

Gentlemen:

I have used Wilbur's Poultry Tonic for a long time and found it indispensable in raising chickens. It invigorates the system and therefore prevents all ailments which poultry is subject to. I have also sold it in my vicinity for a number of years and have yet to hear of one single complaint. I remain,

Yours Respectfully,

GEO. E. GREEN, Ridgewood, Ind.

Wilbur Stock Food Co., Milwaukee, Wis.

Gentlemen:

I bought 200 lbs. of your Wilbur's Poultry Tonic this spring, and am well pleased with the results from feeding the same. I fed 150 hens this winter, and I sold in January, February and March $51.36 worth of eggs.

Now I have developed hens out of my late pullets, and they are laying extremely well.

Respectfully Yours, CHARLES A. MOREHOUS, Hector, Ind.

Wilbur Stock Food Co., Milwaukee, Wis.
